Kolodner, 2012-12-06 This book has been a long time in the making The computerization activities described in these pages began in 1977 at the Department of Veterans Affairs VA but we devoted most of our focus and efforts to building and then implementing the extensive hospital information system known as the Decentralized Hospital Computer System DHCP throughout VA Delivering the product has been our primary goal We spent relatively little time documenting or describing our experiences or lessons learned Except for some presentations at national meetings and a relatively few publications almost none of which were in the standard trade journals read by Chief Information Officers CIOs and equivalent top managers in the private and nonprofit sectors VA's accomplishments remained a well kept secret In 1988 Helly Orthner encouraged VA staff to consider writing a book but the press of day to day activities always seemed to take precedence and the book languished on the back burner      Protecting Privacy in Computerized Medical Information, 1993      The Computer-Based Patient Record Institute of Medicine, Committee on Improving the Patient Record, 1997-10-14 Most industries have plunged into data automation but health care organizations have lagged in moving patients medical records from paper to computers In its first edition this book presented a blueprint for introducing the computer based patient record CPR The revised edition adds new information to the original book One section describes recent developments including the creation of a computer based patient record institute An international chapter highlights what is new in this still emerging technology An expert committee explores the potential of machine readable CPRs to improve diagnostic and care decisions provide a database for policymaking and much more addressing these key questions Who uses patient records What technology is available and what further research is necessary to meet users needs What should government medical organizations and others do to make the transition to CPRs The volume also explores such issues as privacy and confidentiality costs the need for training legal barriers to CPRs and other key topics

For the Record Committee on Maintaining Privacy and Security in Health Care Applications of the National Information Infrastructure, Commission on Physical Sciences, Mathematics, and Applications, Computer Science and Telecommunications Board, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, National Research Council, 1997-06-23

When you visit the doctor information about you may be recorded in an office computer Your tests may be sent to a laboratory or consulting physician Relevant information may be transmitted to your health insurer or pharmacy Your data may be collected by the state government or by an organization that accredits health care or studies medical costs By making information more readily available to those who need it greater use of computerized health information can help improve the quality of health care and reduce its costs Yet health care organizations must find ways to ensure that electronic health information is not improperly divulged Patient privacy has been an issue since the oath of Hippocrates first called on physicians to keep silence on patient matters and with highly sensitive data genetic information HIV test results psychiatric records entering patient records concerns over privacy and security are growing

For the Record responds to the health care industry s need for greater guidance in protecting health information that increasingly flows through the national information infrastructure from patient to provider payer analyst employer government agency medical product manufacturer and beyond This book makes practical detailed recommendations for technical and organizational solutions and national level initiatives

For the Record describes two major types of privacy and security concerns that stem from the availability of health information in electronic form the increased potential for inappropriate release of information held by individual organizations whether by those with access to computerized records or those who break into them and systemic concerns derived from open and widespread sharing of data among various parties

The committee reports on the technological and organizational aspects of security management including basic principles of security the effectiveness of technologies for user authentication access control and encryption obstacles and incentives in the adoption of new technologies and mechanisms for training monitoring and enforcement

For the Record reviews the growing interest in electronic medical records the increasing value of health information to providers payers researchers and administrators and the current legal and regulatory environment for protecting health data This information is of immediate interest to policymakers health policy researchers patient advocates professionals in health data management and other stakeholders

The Computer-based Patient Record Institute of Medicine (U.S.). Committee on Improving the Patient Record, Richard S. Dick, Elaine B. Steen, 1991 Produced by the Institute of Medicine this volume presents a blueprint for introducing the computer based patient record CPR nationwide within the next decade An expert panel explores the potential of the machine readable CPR to improve diagnostic and care decisions and provide a database for po
