Computing Patterns In Strings:

Computing Patterns in Strings Bill Smyth, 2003 The computation of patterns in strings is a fundamental requirement in many areas of science and information processing The operation of a text editor the lexical analysis of a computer program the functioning of a finite automaton the retrieval of information from a database these are all activities which may require that patterns be located and computed In other areas of science the algorithms that compute patterns have applications in such diverse fields as data compression cryptography speech recognition computer vision computational geometry and molecular biology

Computer Algorithms Jun-ichi Aoe, 1994-06-13 Introduces the basic concepts and characteristics of string pattern matching strategies and provides numerous references for further reading The text describes and evaluates the BF KMP BM and KR algorithms discusses improvements for string pattern matching machines and details a technique for detecting and removing the redundant operation of the AC machine Also explored are typical problems in approximate string matching In addition the reader will find a description for applying string pattern matching algorithms to multidimensional matching problems an investigation of numerous hardware based solutions for pattern matching and an examination of hardware approaches for full text search
