Weighted-area Correlation and Bidirectional Flow of Information in Pattern Recognition R. D Freeman (Jr), SYSTEM DEVELOPMENT CORP SANTA MONICA CALIF., 1963 This report describes an investigation of two problems in pattern recognition The first was to estimate empirically the error rate to be expected using weighted area correlation on single font uncontrolled typed characters A computer program used a learning procedure to create new templates based on those inputs it was unsure of A total of 650 inputs were used during which the error rate dropped by almost an order of magnitude to under 1% The second problem was to test the power of simple bidirectional flow of information in pattern recognition Even when weighted area correlation could not positively identify a sample it could reduce the ambiguity to a list of candidates This list was never over six out of a possible 26 and averaged between one and three An unsophisticated procedure which involved no learning was used to compare all pairs of elements on the candidate list in an attempt to eliminate one of the pair The results show the value of bidirectional flow of information Finally a more sophisticated system is described for recognizing typed letters and the form in which bidirectional flow of information was used in the study is considered in more general terms Author Pattern Recognition Jesús Ariel Carrasco-Ochoa, José Francisco Martínez-Trinidad, José Arturo Olvera-López, Joaquín Salas, 2019-06-19 This book constitutes the proceedings of the 11th Mexican Conference on Pattern Recognition MCPR 2019 held in Quer taro Mexico in June 2019 The 40 papers presented in this volume were carefully reviewed and selected from 86 submissions They were organized in topical sections named artificial intelligence techniques and recognition computer vision industrial and medical applications of pattern recognition image processing and analysis pattern recognition techniques signal processing and analysis natural language and processing and recognition Pattern Recognition for Reliability Assessment of Water Distribution

Data Interpretation Diane Wolff,2012-12-06 An attempt is made in this book to give scientists a detailed working knowledge of the powerful mathematical tools available to aid in data interpretation especially when confronted with large data sets incorporating many parameters A minimal amount of computer knowledge is necessary for successful applications and we have tried conscientiously to provide this in the appropriate sections and references Scientific data are now being produced at rates not believed possible ten years ago A major goal in any scientific investigation should be to obtain a critical evaluation of the data generated in a set of experiments in order to extract whatever useful scientific information may be present Very often the large number of measurements present in the data set does not make this an easy task The goals of this book are thus fourfold The first is to create a useful reference on the applications of these statistical pattern recognition methods to the sciences The majority of our discussions center around the fields of chemistry geology environmental sciences physics and the biological and medical sciences In Chapter IV a section is devoted to each of these fields Since the applications of pattern recognition techniques are essentially unlimited restricted only by the outer limitations of
