Mourning in the Machine Tamara B. Hayes, 2026-03-10 For millennia, human grief was a profoundly physical and localized ritual. We gathered, we buried, and we eventually moved on, guided by cultural timelines that allowed the dead to fade naturally into memory. Today, the internet has violently disrupted this ancient biological process. When someone dies, their digital footprint remains perfectly intact. Social media profiles freeze into eternal memorials, algorithms inadvertently serve up painful reminders of the deceased, and mourning has become a public collective performance. Our brains are simply not equipped to process loss when the person's digital ghost continues to live in our pockets. Mourning in the Machine explores the uncharted psychological territory of digital bereavement. It analyzes how the persistence of online data prevents necessary psychological closure, creating a new type of chronic ambient grief that keeps us tethered to the past. Navigate the complexities of loss in the digital age. Learn how to manage digital legacies, set boundaries with social media memorials, and rediscover healthy grieving processes in a world that never truly deletes anything.

Understanding Dying, Death & Bereavement Michael R. Leming, George E. Dickinson, 1998 This work approaches the subject of death and dying from a social psychological perspective while examining the social meanings of dying and death. It addresses such issues as religion and death attitudes, the dying process, euthanasia, bereavement, burial practices, and death perceptions from childhood through older adulthood. This edition has been updated to include information and statistics on death etiology and life expectancy.

Understanding Dying, Death, and Bereavement Michael R. Leming, George E. Dickinson, 2007 Using a social psychological approach, this edition remains solidly grounded in theory and research but places greater emphasis on the individual and coping with death and dying. These two well-known authors and researchers integrate stimulating personal accounts throughout the text and apply concepts to specific examples that deal with cross-cultural perspectives and the practical matters of death and dying.

Death Liturgy and Ritual Paul P. J. Sheppy,2003 At the beginning of the twenty first century the Christian Church continues to minister to the dying and the bereaved However it does so in a rapidly changing world The traditional understandings of death and life after death are challenged by the disciplines of medicine the law philosophy psychology and anthropology This two volume study of Christian funerary theology and practice is written from the author s direct experience of conducting funerals and of drafting liturgical resources for others In Volume I Dr Sheppy argues that the Church ought to construct its theological agenda in dialogue with other fields of study He argues for a Christian statement about death that finds its basis in the Paschal Mystery since human death must be explained by reference to Jesus death descent to the dead and resurrection Volume II reviews a wide range of current Christian funeral rites and examines how they reflect both the Church s concern for the death and resurrection of Christ and the contemporary secular demand for funerals which celebrate the life of the deceased

A Distant Grief Bart Ziino,2007 Sixty thousand Australians died during the First World War This book is the first major study to examine the roles of war graves and cemeteries in private grief and mourning through archival research of the Commonwealth War Graves Commission the organization responsible for commemorating the million soldiers of the British Empire who died in the war A Distant Grief reorients and enriches international discussion of reactions to death and commemoration during and after the First World War The author Bart Ziino has written on war memorials Gallipoli and the Australian memory of war The thesis on which this book is based won the 2005 Australian Historical Association s Serle Award for the best thesis in Australian History Beyond the Innocence of Childhood: Factors influencing children and adolescents' perceptions and attitudes toward death David Walter Adams,Eleanor J. Deveau,1995 Death is not a mere possibility but a certainty for all of us Yet today s society unrealistically portrays childhood as a time of unremittant joy and freedom Unfortunately the reality of life may suddenly bring children face to face with tragic circumstances such as the death of their pet the terminal illness of their parent their own struggle with life threatening disease the accidental death of their sibling or the suicide of a friend The gravity of any of these situations takes children beyond the innocence of childhood and plunges them into a world that is frightening and full of uncertainty Unfortunately our perceptions and attitudes toward death do not equip children with the tools to help them cope adequately with such overwhelming experiences Beyond the Innocence of Childhood is a collection of forty chapters which are divided into three separate volumes The overall purpose of this series is to answer the question How do we as educators clinicians other professionals and parents help children and adolescents deal with threat to their lives dying death and bereavement In this three volume set the editors have brought together a number of well known educators researchers and practitioners who share their knowledge and expertise concerning the care and well being of children and adolescents
