After Britain:

After Britain Tom Nairn,2000 After the Imperial Turn Antoinette Burton,2003-05-29 Essays in this collection assess the nation as a subject of disciplinary inquiry considering both its enduring relevance and its inadequacy as an analytical category for studying history literature and culture Britain's Retreat from East of Suez Saki Dockrill,2002-07-09 This book based on recently declassified documents in Britain and the USA is the first detailed account of Britain's East of Suez decision which was taken by the Harold Wilson Government in 1967-68. Contrary to received opinion the author argues that the decision was not taken hastily as a result of the November 1967 devaluation. Nor is there any hard evidence to support the notion that there existed a Pound Defence deal with the USA. Despite Washington's pressure to maintain Britain's East of Suez role the decision was taken by the Labour Government on the basis of a long term effort to re-examine Britain's world role since 1959 and it marked the end of an era for postwar Britain Britain's Trade and Economic Structure Lynden Briscoe,1999 Briscoe examines the reasons behind Britain's economic decline since the 1960s in this work discussing the causes and effects of deindustrialization and changes to traditional trading patterns as well as assessing Britain's future Britain's Killing Fields John Igbino,2023-01-19 Britain kept meticulous records of its casualties in Southern Nigeria but it did not collect and keep any coherent records of the casualties it inflicted on the so-called natives. Britain's failure to collect and keep natives' casualty statistics was not an unconscious omission. Instead, it was a deliberate policy because it placed considerably less value on the lives of natives compared to European lives. It held that a drop of European blood was worth four times more than natives' blood. The death of a District Officer on active duty was worth the lives of up to two hundred natives, and it took twenty natives to service a Political Officer on the field. Additionally, it accepted the arguments of its top commander, Colonel Arthur Montanaro, that natives were engaged in illegal resistance to His Majesty's Government; therefore, while he had a duty to crush their resistance to the British Government, he was not duty-bound to account for their deaths. Accordingly, the book explores these untold aspects of British History, particularly the computation of the number of Indigenous people of the landmass which became Southern Nigeria who were killed between 1900 and 1930 during one of the bloodiest periods in the history of Southern Nigeria as British troops of the West African Frontier Force (WAFF) and the West African Service Brigade (WASB) rampaged through Southern Nigeria. In its explorations, the book posed and addressed the following questions: how many Indigenous people of Southern Nigeria were killed by the British Army between 1900 and 1930? What were the names of the people who were killed? Were there women and children among the dead? How old were they when they died? Where were they buried? Who buried them there? What were the prevailing political circumstances when they were killed? Under what military circumstances were they killed? Was there a state of war between the Indigenous people of Southern Nigeria and Britain when they were killed? The book's sources were unpublished original archival documents at the National Archives. These document sources included Ordinances, Proclamations, Admiralty's and
