Cableviewing Communication And Information Science:

Cableviewing Carrie Heeter,Bradley S. Greenberg,1988 This unique volume examines the process of cableviewing the nature of cableviewers and especially the viewing choice process The concept of viewing style is introduced and individual differences in viewing style are examined The research presented here represents the change from media effects studies to studies of users and user behavior Forthcoming Books Rose Army,1989-09 Human Communication Gordon L. Dahnke,Glen W. Clatterbuck,1990 FCC Record United States. Federal Communications Commission,2003 Issues in New Information Technology Benjamin M. Compaine,1988 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1997 Books in Series, 1876-1949 R.R. Bowker Company,1982 Scientific and Technical Books and Serials in Print ,1989 The Hidden War of Information Enrique González Manet,1988 The Voice of America Laurien Alexandre,1988 An Open Approach to Information Policy Making Robert Jacobson,1989 Open planning introduces citizens to the institutions that make policy as one way of bolstering democratic technological decision making Specifically the book explores the application of open planning to the policies that direct and design the operation of technology based information systems The use of these systems so far has produced dangerous dichotomy between those who are part of the knowledge elite and those who merely accommodate themselves to technological change □□□□□□□□ ,1990 Communications at the Crossroads Ramona R. Rush,Donna Allen,1989 Providing perspectives on women s issues and the communication process this book contends that communications is at important crossroads because of rather than in spite of women They challenge that women s language reality orientations and experiences are different from those of men A further challenge makes the case for breaking the hold and subsequent control by traditional mass media on women s issues Doing Research on Women's Communication Kathryn Carter,Carole Spitzack,1989 A critique of conventional approaches to communication research the authors argue that the impact of gender on research practices has been ignored By exploring gender issues and conducting applied research in the areas of mass and interpersonal communication therapeutic interaction and rhetoric they critique traditional scholarship and offer novel alternatives The authors take intact theories and methods and show their applicability or lack thereof to the study of women s communication The adaptations allow researchers to conduct more accurate sensitive and theoretically sound analyses of womens communication than those promoted by traditional paradigms The Application of Computer Technology to Communication Processes ,1984 Talking to Strangers Gary Gumpert,Sandra L. Fish,1990 The book analyzes the transnational information industry in its total scope and subsectors including a discussion of such topics as concentration ratio profitability growth internationalization and interlocks The implications of converging interests between information and financial industries are discussed in view of the need for a new international order Talking American Donald Carbaugh,1988 This study explores cultural features in communication and examines language in use by studying the talk within a prominent cultural event the DONAHUE show First the study provides a detailed reading of America today showing the importance of the individual in American society the prominence of choice and the role of the self as an antagonist to traditional social roles and the institutions of society more generally Similarly the study explores common ways of speaking such as being honest about who one is sharing one's thoughts and feelings and really communicating with others By unraveling how these words give shape to American means and meanings the study demonstrates how routine communication creates powerful motives in contemporary American life Second the study provides a way of seeing and hearing ordinary communication as a resource to develop a cultural perspective on ordinary communicative action

The Small World Manfred Kochen, 1989 The phenomenon of the small world as in two new acquaintances discovering that they have an acquaintance in common is of great scientific interest The small world phenomenon appears to be a fundamental property of social structure and function Understanding its origin and its implications can shed light on problems in sociology sociometrics political science social psychology and anthropology This volume brings together much of what is understood about the small world problem and the chapters indicate the quality vitality and scope of this area

Technologies of Power Majid Tehranian, 1990 Within a comparative theoretical and global network this volume focuses on the impact of information technologies on the prospects for democratic development It deals with the hopes as well as the fears for democracy and development that have emerged out of the current technological revolution in information and communication The volume argues that information technologies have historically played a dual and paradoxical role in political formations Generally the Big Media the national press broadcasting and mainframe computers have served the centralizing forces while the Small Media the alternative press small scale audio video production and transmission facilities and increasingly personal computing networking have provided the channel for community resistance and mobilization The volume argues that the new information technologies like the old should be viewed neither as technologies of freedom nor of tyranny but primarily as technologies of power that lock into existing or emerging techno structures of power

Women Communicating Barbara Bate, Anita Taylor, 1988 This book provides original inquiries into the communication of women with other women a type of research striking in its absence from the hundreds of other recent studies of gender and communication It fills the void within communication research and provides a variety of qualitative studies focusing on the actual communication behavior of women
