Broadcasting The Blues:

Broadcasting the Blues Paul Oliver, 2014-02-04 Broadcasting the Blues Black Blues in the Segregation Era is based on Paul Oliver's award-winning radio broadcasts from the BBC that were created over several decades. It traces the social history of the blues in America from its birth in the rural South through the heyday of sound recordings. Noted blues scholar Paul Oliver draws on decades of research and personal interviews with performers, some of whom he discovered and recorded for the first time to draw a picture of how the blues aesthetic developed, giving new insights into the role blues played in American society before racial integration. The book begins by outlining the history of the blues from African music through country stomps, ragtime songs, and field hollers. From the heroic figures of black folksong, including the steel-driving railroad worker John Henry and the destructive Boll Weevil, to the content of the emerging blues, the author discusses the meaning behind the often-coded words of the blues, evoking topics such as playful sexuality, magic, and medicine, the stresses of segregation, and commentary on national events. Finally, the author traces the history of blues documentation, showing how our views of the early blues have been shaped through a complex interplay of social forces and indicating possible lines for future research.

Moanin' Low Ross Laird, 1996-11-25 The first comprehensive guide to pre-1934 female popular vocal recordings sung in English from around the world, and including all styles, this discographical study includes solos, duets, trios, and quartets composed by the great songwriters of the early 1900s, from Irving Berlin to Victor Young. The majority of the listings include material that has not been previously published, and a large number of entries profile such prolific artists as Helen Clark and Gladys Rice, who are not in previous discographies. A special feature includes data on sound-on-disc recording made for early talking picture musical shorts, especially by Vitaphone, that is not documented elsewhere. A comprehensive title index includes composer credits for the majority of the titles listed. Many of the records documented in this volume are by the artists who introduced these songs at this time, or who performed them in the original productions of the shows or movies for which they were written. The singing styles include those of cabaret performers, music hall, and vaudeville acts. Songs for the stage, screen, and radio are also included.
