British Broadcasting In Transition:

British Broadcasting in Transition Burton Paulu, British Broadcasting in Transition Burton Paulu, 1961-04-26
British Broadcasting in Transition was first published in 1961 Recent developments in British radio and television broadcasting are of keen interest to those on both sides of the Atlantic who are concerned with the basic problems of broadcast regulation Dr Paulu gives a detailed account of these developments since 1955 when the new Independent Television Authority introduced commercial television in competition with the noncommercial service of the British Broadcasting Corporation This volume a sequel to his earlier book British Broadcasting Radio and Television in the United Kingdom brings the study up to date and provides a comprehensive basis for an evaluation of the British system of managing the airwaves The author describes the legal and financial structures of both the BBC and the ITA and reviews their program policies and operations He discusses the effects of television on other communications media and the reaction of the British public to both radio and television He appraises current performances of the BBC and ITA notes the effects of competitions and offers some recommendations for the future of British broadcasting With increasing numbers of Americans questioning the merits of their broadcasting system with Britons considering possible changes in theirs and with several Continental countries contemplating commercial support for television this account of the British experience provides timely and needed data British Broadcasting, 1922-1982 Gavin Higgens, 1983 British Broadcasting, 1922-1972 British Broadcasting Corporation, 1972 BBC Handbook British Broadcasting Corporation, 1928 BBC Handbook British Broadcasting Corporation, 1979 British Tv & Film Culture in the 1950s Su Holmes, 2005 This book focuses on the emerging historical relations between British television and film culture in the 1950s Drawing upon archival research it does this by exploring the development of the early cinema programme on television principally Current Release BBC 1952 3 Picture Parade BBC 1956 and Film Fanfare ABC 1956 7 and argues that it was these texts which played the central role in the developing relations between the media Particularly when it comes to Britain the early co existence of television and cinema has been seen as hostile and antagonistic but in situating these programmes within the contexts of their institutional production aesthetic construction and reception the book aims to reconstruct television s coverage of the cinema as crucial to the fabric of British film and television culture at the time It demonstrates how the roles of cinema and television as media industries and cultural forms but crucially as sites of screen entertainment effectively came together at this time in such a way that is unique to this decade Low Carbon Energy Transitions Kathleen Araújo, 2017-11-03 The world is at a pivotal crossroad in energy choices There is a strong sense that our use of energy must be more sustainable Moreover many also broadly agree that a way must be found to rely increasingly on lower carbon energy sources However no single or clear solution exists on the means to carry out such a shift at either a national or international level Traditional energy planning when done has revolved around limited cost projections that often fail to take longer term evidence and interactions of a wider set of factors into account The good news is that evidence does exist on such change in case studies of different nations shifting toward low carbon energy approaches In fact such shifts can occur quite quickly at times alongside industrial and societal advance innovation and policy learning These types of insights will be important for informing energy debates and decision making going forward Low Carbon Energy Transitions Turning Points in National Policy and Innovation takes an in depth look at four energy transitions that have occurred since the global oil crisis of 1973 Brazilian biofuels Danish wind power French nuclear power and Icelandic geothermal energy With these cases Dr Ara jo argues that significant nationwide shifts to low carbon energy can occur in under fifteen years and that technological complexity is not necessarily a major impediment to such shifts Dr Ara jo draws on more than five years of research and interviews with over 120 different scientists government workers academics and members of civil society in completing this study Low Carbon Energy Transitions is written for for professionals in energy the environment and policy as well as for students and citizens who are interested in critical decisions about energy sustainability Technology briefings are provided for each of the major technologies in this book so that scientific and non scientific readers can engage in more even discussions about the choices that are involved

Seeking Truth in International TV News Vivien Marsh,2023-03-17 This book puts CGTN formerly CCTV News and the BBC s international television news head to head interrogating competing truths in the exacting business of news reporting Written by a media scholar and former long serving BBC News journalist Seeking Truth in International TV News asks if China s English language television news programmes are little more than state propaganda and if the BBC can be viewed as a universal news standard to which all other broadcasters should aspire Over 8 years of Xi Jinping s rule it investigates how the international TV news channels of CGTN and the BBC reported on Chinese politics protests in Hong Kong disasters China in Africa and insurgency and its suppression in Xinjiang The comparison reveals uneven editorial imperatives at the Chinese broadcaster and raises questions about the BBC s professed tenets of balance and impartiality It also illustrates how Chinese journalists commit small acts of journalism that push the boundaries of information control A rigorous analysis of reportage from the two channels this book will be relevant to scholars of global media journalism international relations and public diplomacy It will also interest those in academia the media and international affairs who want to examine the nature of news and soft power in a comparative context
