Bright Moon, White Clouds Li Po, 2012-06-05 Li Po 701 762 is considered one of the greatest poets to live during the Tang dynasty what was considered to be the golden age for Chinese poetry He was also the first Chinese poet to become well known in the West and he greatly influenced many American poets during the twentieth century Calling himself the God of Wine and known to his patrons as a fallen immortal Li Po wrote with eloquence vividness and often playfulness as he extols the joys of nature wine and the life of a wandering recluse Li Po had a strong social conscience and he struggled against the hard times of his age He was inspired by the newly blossoming Zen Buddhism and merged it with the Taoism that he had studied all his life Though Li Po s love of wine is legendary the translator J P Seaton includes poems on a wide range of topics friendship and love political criticism poems written to curry patronage poems of the spirit to offer a new interpretation of this giant of Chinese poetry Seaton offers us a poet who learned hard lessons from a life lived hard and offered his readers these lessons as vivid lively poetry as relevant today as it was during the Tang dynasty Over one thousand poems have been attributed to Li Po many of them unpublished This new collection includes poems not available in any other editions

Those who wish to assure themselves that they will lose nothing by ignoring Chinese literature often ask the question Have the Chinese a Homer an Aeschylus a Shakespeare or Tolstoy The answer must be that China has literature of some importance The novel exists and has merits but never became the instrument of great writers Her philosophic literature knows no mean between the traditionalism of Confucius and the nihilism of Chuang tzu In mind as in body the Chinese were for the most part mainlanders Their thoughts set out on no strange quests and adventures just as their ships discovered no new continents yet their literature has a delicacy and refinement that is not found in the Western canon Yet we must recognize that for thousands of years the Chinese maintained a level of rationality and tolerance that the West might well envy They had no Index no Inquisition and no Holy Wars Superstition has indeed played its part among them but it has never as in Europe been perpetually dominant It follows from the limitations of Chinese thought that the literature of the country should excel in reflection rather than in speculation That this is particularly true of its poetry will be gauged from the present volume In the poems of Po Ch i no close reasoning or philosophic subtlety will be discovered but a power of candid reflection and self analysis which has not been rivalled in the West Turning from thought to emotion the most conspicuous feature of European poetry is its pre occupation with love This is apparent not only in actual love poems but in all poetry where the personality of the writer is in any way obtruded The poet tends to exhibit himself in a romantic light in fact to recommend himself as a lover The Chinese poet has a tendency different but analogous He recommends himself not as a lover but as a friend He poses as a person of infinite leisure which is what we should most like our friends to possess and free from worldly ambitions which constitute the greatest bars to friendship He would have us think of him as a boon companion a great drinker of wine who will not disgrace a social gathering by quitting it sober To the European poet the relation between man and woman is a thing of supreme importance and mystery To the Chinese it is something commonplace obvious a need of the body not a satisfaction of the emotions These he reserves entirely for friendship Accordingly we find that while our poets tend to lay stress on physical courage and other qualities which normal women admire Po Chu i is not ashamed to write such a poem as Alarm at entering the Gorges Our poets imagine themselves very much as Art has portrayed them bare headed and wild eyed with shirts unbuttoned at the neck as though they feared that a seizure of emotion might at any minute suffocate them The Chinese poet introduces himself as a timid recluse Reading the Book of Changes at the Northern Window playing chess with a Taoist priest or practicing calligraphy with an occasional visitor If With a Portrait of the Author had been the rule in the Chinese book market it is in such occupations as these that he would be shown a neat and tranquil figure compared with our lurid frontispieces The macho man myth never took hold with the Chinese

A Few Famous Chinese Poems ,1911 Poems Li Po,Tu Fu,2015-07-30 Li Po AD 701 62 and Tu Fu AD 712 70 were devoted friends who are traditionally considered to be among China s greatest poets Li Po a legendary carouser was an itinerant poet whose writing often dream poems or spirit journeys soars to sublime heights in its descriptions of natural scenes and powerful emotions His sheer escapism and joy is balanced by Tu Fu who expresses the Confucian virtues of humanity and humility in more autobiographical works that are imbued with great compassion and earthy reality and shot through with humour Together these two poets of the T ang dynasty complement each other so well that they often came to be spoken of as one Li Tu who covers the whole spectrum of human life experience and feeling

Classical Chinese Poetry David Hinton,2014-06-10 A magisterial book of nearly five hundred poems from some of history s greatest Chinese poets translated and edited by a renowned poet and scholar New Republic The Chinese poetic tradition is the largest and longest continuous tradition in world literature This rich and far reaching anthology of nearly five hundred poems provides a comprehensive account of its first three millennia 1500 BCE to 1200 CE the period during which virtually all its landmark developments took place Unlike earlier anthologies of Chinese poetry Hinton s book focuses on a relatively small number of poets providing selections that are large enough to re create each as a fully realized and unique voice New introductions to each poet s work provide a readable history told for the first time as a series of poetic innovations forged by a series of master poets David Hinton has lured into English a new manner of hearing the great poets of that long glory of China s classical age His achievement is another echo of the original and a gift to our language W S Merwin

Embracing the Beat of Phrase: An Emotional Symphony within Chinese Poems

In some sort of eaten by displays and the ceaseless chatter of quick connection, the melodic splendor and emotional symphony created by the written term often disappear in to the backdrop, eclipsed by the persistent sound and disturbances that permeate our lives. However, nestled within the pages of Chinese Poems a wonderful literary treasure filled with fresh feelings, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Crafted by an elegant composer of language, that fascinating masterpiece conducts readers on a psychological trip, skillfully unraveling the hidden songs and profound impact resonating within each cautiously crafted phrase. Within the depths of the moving review, we can examine the book is key harmonies, analyze its enthralling publishing fashion, and surrender ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
