

Health and Safety Guide

Accident

An undesired, unplanned incident resulting in injury, ill- health, death or damage.

Accident Investigation

Process of determining the root causes of accidents, injury/illness, property damage, and near misses to prevent them from occurring again. The level of investigation should be appropriate to the perceived or potential level of risk and/or illness or injury incurred.

Acute exposure

Immediate exposure to a hazardous substance over a short time period.

Allergen

A substance that causes an allergic reaction in the body.

Appointed Person

A designated person who has been nominated to take a supervisory role for a specific activity/event e.g. accident, injury or illness. The appointed person will have completed basic first aid training and have the skills and knowledge to deal with a first aid situation. Another good example, is an AP on a construction site, which is typically someone who is responsible for planning and control of lifting operations.

Asbestos

The name used for a group of fibrous silicate minerals that once inhaled, have adverse effects on health and can lead to fatal lung diseases.

Asbestosis

The damage of lung tissue caused by asbestos, resulting in a shortness of breath.

Audit

An official inspection of the health and safety management arrangements of a premises, carried out by qualified auditors. The aim of an audit is to confirm that adequate control measures have been put in place to cover the risks and to ensure that these measures are being adhered to.

Best Practice

A way of delivering risk control practices which have been recognized by an authoritative body as cooperating with and even going beyond what is expected by the law.

Behavioural Safety

The application of behavioural research on human performance to the problems of safety in the workplace. Behavioural safety intends to change unsafe behaviour into safer behaviour.

Chronic Exposure

Multiple exposures to a hazardous substance over a long period of time. This typically results in chronic health impacts on the individual e.g. loss of hearing, reduction in lung function etc.
