What No Baby? Leslie Cannold, 2005-01-01 What No Baby takes us on a journey into the lives of contemporary women who plan to have it all marriage motherhood and work yet have been derailed by reluctant men insatiably demanding jobs and ever climbing expectations of what it takes to be a good mother The Australian Bureau of Statistics predicts that 25% of Australian women who are currently in their reproductive years will never have children Yet respected researcher and ethicist Leslie Cannold argues that women want to mother as much as they ever did What has changed is their willingness to sacrifice everything they've built everything they are to do so Drawing on demographic data social research and insights gained from interviews with women in their 20s 30s and 40s Cannold shows that the easier society makes it for women to combine parenthood and paid work the closer women get to having the number of children they want At the end of the 21st century it is women's freedom to mother that is most at risk Guaranteed to reshape the current debate around declining fertility What No Baby is a must read for everyone concerned about Australia's fertility decline and for women who want to better understand and to solve the social problems keeping them from fulfilling lives in which children play a part Feminism, Domesticity and Popular Culture Stacy Gillis, Joanne Hollows, 2008-09-07 The relationship between feminism and domesticity has recently come in for renewed interest in popular culture This collection makes an intervention into the debates surrounding feminism's contentious relationship with domesticity and domestic femininities in popular culture It offers an understanding of the place of domesticity in contemporary popular culture whilst considering how these domesticities might be understood from a feminist perspective All the essays contribute to a more complex understanding of the relationships between feminism femininity and domesticity developing new ways of theorizing these relationships that have marked much of feminist history Essay topics include Marguerite Patten reality television shows like How Clean is Your House the figure of the maid in contemporary American cinema aging or widowed domestic femininities and the relationship between domesticity and motherhood The Living Female Writers of the South Mary T.
