Paperbound Books in Print ,1992 Design of Assistive Technology for Ageing Populations Andree Woodcock,Louise Moody,Deana McDonagh,Ajita Jain,Lakhmi C. Jain,2019-11-20 This book focuses on various aspects of research on ageing including in relation to assistive technology dignity of aging how technology can support a greater understanding of the experience of physically aging and cognitive changes mobility issues associated with the elderly and emerging technologies The 80 age group represents an expanding market with an estimated worth of 21 4 billion a year Everyone is affected by this shift in demographics we are getting older and may become carers and we need to prepare ourselves and adjust our surroundings for longer life Products services and environments have been changing in response to the changing population Presenting international design research to demonstrate the thinking and ideas shaping design this book is a valuable resource for designers product developers employers gerontologists and medical health and service providers as well as everyone interested in aging Computing the Sentence Anat Ninio,2025-12-18 Developmental research is abandoning formal syntax probably because Chomskyan generative syntax lacks psychological reality Some studies opt for pure statistics based definitions of syntactic knowledge as if humans were similar to Large Language Models of AI and had no structurally meaningful concepts of syntactic relations Others tend to Constructivist syntax where patterns of elements are said to possess associated semantic meaning The problem is that the core syntactic relations that young children acquire such as verb object and verb subject combinations do not possess particular associated semantics meaning that the Constructivist approach is not a helpful vehicle for understanding syntactic acquisition In this book Anat Ninio approaches syntactic development from a novel point of view within the framework of Relevance Theory a theory of pragmatics with a strong commitment to a cognitive conceptualization of linguistic competence This theory s architecture of linguistic information acknowledges the existence of procedural instructions as part of the content of words covering various processing acts

including syntactic combination Methodologically the study employs computer programming algorithms as heuristic models for the cognitive combinatory processes of syntax computer programs being a close analogue to mental plans for solving computational problems The unusual framework and methodology adopted in the book represent a break with current approaches in developmental psycholinguistics and perhaps even with the teachings of mainstream linguistics The first part of the book proposes a procedural syntax of the central patterns of English covering argument structure constructions phrasal and clausal combinations of function words and content words wh questions relative clauses and coordination and gapping This modelling resolves significant issues that have been eluding linguistic theory for decades The second part of the book describes the development of certain syntactic procedures in English speaking children employing a microgenetic analysis to demonstrate that syntactic learning is guesswork by trial and error Despite the apparent chaos the many different attempts that children make to arrive at some syntactic construct belong to a single learning process and gradually converge on the adult algorithm Defining syntax in terms of combinatory procedures provides a novel perspective on our predictive brain on language structure and on cross linguistic variation
