Die Quints:

Representations of Flight and Expulsion in East German Prose Works William John Niven, 2014 Explodes the conventional wisdom that there was a taboo on the topic of flight and expulsion in East Germany It is by now almost a cliché that the flight and expulsion of Germans from east central Europe at the end of the Second World War was a taboo topic in the German Democratic Republic According to this claim the Socialist Unity Party SED suppressed reference to flight and expulsion so as not to upset its socialist neighbors This book shows that such a view does not hold up to serious scrutiny While the topic may not have been addressed in the realm of politics or official commemoration it was picked up again and again in literature particularly fiction Representations of flight and expulsion were by no means restricted as some have asserted to Christa Wolf's novel Kindheitsmuster Niven's study documents around one hundred novels and short stories published in the GDR that address flight or expulsion He argues that in the 1950s and early 1960s GDR fiction included many refugee figures The predominant emphasis was on their integration under socialism rather than their experience of flight and loss of home nevertheless flight and to a lesser degree expulsion were depicted as was their impact on individuals They continued to be portrayed in the late GDR and in post unification east Germany Flight and expulsion were subject to a developing literary discourse in the GDR a discourse that this book explores Bill Niven is Professor in Contemporary German History at Nottingham Trent University
