The Adaptable Man Janet Frame, 1956 Janet Frame Matthew Paul Pierre, 2011-05-12 In Janet Frame Semiotics and Biosemiotics in Her Early Fiction Paul Matthew St Pierre exploits the linguistic discipline of semiotics and the neurobiological discipline of biosemiotics to propose an original and dynamic reading of the first four works of fiction by New Zealand writer Janet Frame 1924 2004 The Lagoon Stories 1951 Owls Do Cry 1957 Faces in the Water 1961 and The Edge of the Alphabet 1962 Opposing the prevailing reading of Frame's early fiction as autobiographical deriving from her medical history he argues her books are singular evocations of her astonishing imagination His purpose is to fix this historical record and provide an alternative model for interpreting one of the 20th century's most stylistically demanding and rewarding writers Semiotics and biosemiotics are his means for unlocking the early fiction and her later works to a polemical analysis focusing on language sign transmissions writing the body and the biosemiotic self In The Lagoon Owls Do Cry Faces in the Water and The Edge of the Alphabet Frame produced what St Pierre interprets as an original semiotic and biosemiotic modeling system that she applied throughout her oeuvre of twenty books comprising eight story collections seven novels a book of poetry a children's novel and three volumes of autobiography Using this modeling system she designed her fiction as a visual verbal field consisting of still and moving images generated in the imagination located in the brains and central nervous systems of her narrators characters and readers and primarily of the author herself The author discusses the significations of 1 Frame's image signs in water glass photographs film membranes skin and clothing 2 her primary sign repertoire of objects language and human persons in the figures of blood skin and sun 3 her body signs including those generated in the circulatory and neurological systems of all human organisms as biosemiotic living s

The Adaptable Man Janet Frame, 1965 The Unharnessed World Cindy Gabrielle, 2015-06-18 Though New Zealand author Janet Frame 1924 2004 lived at a time of growing dissatisfaction with European cultural models and though her autobiography fiction and letters all testify to the fact that a direct encounter between herself and Buddhism occurred her work has so far never been examined from the vantage point of its indebtedness to Buddhism It is of the utmost significance however that a Buddhist navigation of Frame's texts should shed fresh light on large segments of the Framean corpus which have tended to remain obdurately mysterious This includes passages centering on such themes as the existence of a non dual world or a character's sudden embrace of a non ego like self Of equal significance is the conclusion one then draws that this unharnessed world which human beings are often unable to embrace has always been right under their nose for whenever the aspect of the intellect that filters perceptions into mutually excluding categories fails to function he or she finds a place of subjective arrival in and sees this supposedly unknowable beyond Thus possibly against the grain of mainstream criticism this study argues that Janet Frame constantly seeks ways through which the infinite and the Other can be approached though not corrupted by the perceiving self and that she found in the Buddhist epistemology a pathway towards evoking such alterity
