Dogs - who are they?

Dogs are domesticated members of various sub-species of the canine family. They have been used for a great many different tasks and are found just about everywhere.

How long do dogs live?

A dog's lifespan can be between 8 and 15 years and depends on the breed.

Did you know...?

The oldest dog ever lived almost 30 years old. Many are believed to be living.

What do dogs eat?

A dog's diet depends on their age, health and breed as it is tailored to suit your pet's particular needs.

They also eat a high quality, complete canine diet. However, some owners prefer to add other natural foods, such as fruits and vegetables, including ground meats, to their dog's diet.

There are guidelines for dog owners as to what to feed their dogs. It is important that they are consulted and not ignored. (Only if you have your dog's health checked by a vet.)

They also need access to fresh clean water at all times.

Did you know...?

Some owners find their dogs are happier with frozen ground meat. They are one of the best of food items because it's natural for the dog and the freshest available for them. For a balanced diet, a veterinary professional should be consulted.

They will be happy to share with you. They are a great pet and will love you just as much as you love them.
