Cattle Trails and Animal Lives Karen M. Morin, 2026-01-15 Cattle Trails and Animal Lives remaps the historical and empirical geography of the emergent cattle industry as a series of carceral sites and nodes in the American West focusing on the experiences of animals living and eventually dying under intense carceral structures practices technologies and tools This work shifts the narratives of the Old West cattle kingdoms from cowboys ranchers and cattle barons to the lived experiences of cattle caught within the rural carceral archipelago of the emergent U S beef industry The work focuses on these animals forced movement over land and sea their experiences lives and agency as formerly free roaming animals who were captured enclosed moved and eventually shipped by railroad to slaughterhouses in Chicago and beyond The spatial nodes and sites of the carceral archipelago include the open range the ranch the cattle trail and the cattle town and the intense human carceral controls enacted within them The work further interprets how these animal lives are culturally renarrated to contemporary audiences through living history sites other touristic and artistic re creations of historic cattle drives Hollywood westerns and museum exhibits featuring material carceral artefacts Together these not only perpetuate heroic myths of the Old West but

normalize and even celebrate the carceral experiences of animals The Routledge Companion to Cinema and Politics Yannis Tzioumakis, Claire Molloy, 2016-07-01 The Routledge Companion to Cinema and Politics brings together forty essays by leading film scholars and filmmakers in order to discuss the complex relationship between cinema and politics Organised into eight sections Approaches to Film and Politics Film Activism and Opposition Film Propaganda Ideology and the State The Politics of Mobility Political Hollywood Alternative and Independent Film and Politics The Politics of Cine geographies and The Politics of Documentary this collection covers a broad range of topics including third cinema cinema after 9 11 eco activism human rights independent Chinese documentary film festivals manifestoes film policies film as a response to the post 2008 financial crisis Soviet propaganda the impact of neoliberalism on cinema and many others It foregrounds the key debates concepts approaches and case studies that critique and explain the complex relationship between politics and cinema discussing films from around the world and including examples from film history as well as contemporary cinema It also explores the wider relationship between politics and entertainment examines cinema s response to political and social transformations and questions the extent to which filmmaking itself is a political act Great Animals of the Movies Edward Edelson, 1980 Discusses the role of animals in films and profiles some of the more famous stars of the screen such as Lassie Francis the talking mule Mr Ed and Cheetah Animals, 1913 Animal Worlds Laura McMahon, 2019-05-29 Focusing on a recent wave of international art cinema Animal Worlds offers the first sustained analysis of the relations between cinematic time and animal life Through an aesthetic of extended duration films such as Bestiaire 2010 The Turin Horse 2011 and A Cow s Life 2012 attend to animal worlds of sentience and perception while registering the governing of life through biopolitical regimes Bringing together Gilles Deleuze s writings on cinema and on animals while drawing on Jacques Derrida Jean Christophe Bailly Nicole Shukin and others the book argues that these films question the biopolitical reduction of animal life to forms of capital opening up realms of virtuality becoming and alternative political futures Animals in Film - Their Stories on and Off Screen Thea Feldman, 2014 The movies War Horse Free Willy and Babe entertain by focusing on animals that show their loyalty emotion and intelligence while forming a close bond with a person These heartwarming tales inform the audience about topics such as world history and th Cinemat Tessa Laird, 2025-04-29 A foray through the wilds where experimental films and animals collide Like the flash of a tropical bird s iridescent wing cinema can be furtive and intensely beautiful and it can leave a viewer craving more Cinemat is Tessa Laird s passionate inquiry into the ways that films mimic the majesty mystery and movements of animals her field notes from countless hair raising encounters with films in their natural habitat Part of a growing focus on nonhuman animals in film Cinemat ventures to the furry underbelly of global experimental film practice focusing on films from New Zealand Australia and South America Laird examines how animals are depicted in film and analyzes the various animal qualities of cinema like scratching and sniffing vibrant colors and voices barking howling or echolocation Burrowing into the work of filmmakers such as Arthur and Corinne Cantrill Sriwhana Spong and Ana Vaz Laird's energetic prose embodies the films she discusses seamlessly combining personal anecdotes with art theory and philosophy to spread a wide sensory buffet. Lively and optimistic, Laird uses cinematic animal tropes to encourage readers to rethink what it means to be human. She argues that in a time of ecological collapse such an impulse is a necessary means of imagining other healthier ways of being in this world. Connecting us with the more than human, Cinema lures us toward the beastly becoming of film and ultimately our own animal natures. Retail e-book files for this title are screen reader friendly.

Wildlife Films Derek Bouse, 2000. If as many argue, movies and television have become Western culture's premier storytelling media, so too have they become for most members of society the primary source of encounters with the natural world, particularly wild animals. The television fare offered nightly by national and cable networks such as PBS and the Discovery Channel provides millions of viewers with their only experience of the wilderness and its inhabitants. The very films that so many viewers take as accurate portrayals of wildlife, however, have evolved primarily as a form of entertainment following the established codes and conventions of narrative exposition. The result has been not the representation of nature but its wholesale reconstruction and reconfiguration according to film and television conventions, audience expectations, and the demands of competition in the media marketplace. Wildlife Films traces the genealogy of the nature film from its origins as the animal locomotion studies that mark the very beginnings of motion pictures themselves to the founding of the Animal Planet cable channel that boasts all animals all the time. The narrative and thematic elements that unite wildlife films as a genre have their roots not in the documentary film tradition but in the older traditions of oral and written animal fables as reflections of human society. Bous contends that classic wildlife films often portray animal protagonists living in families modeled on an ideal of the human nuclear family and working in communities that resemble an ideal of bucolic human society. In these stories presented as documentaries, animals are motivated by human emotions and conduct relationships according to human customs. This imposition of culturally satisfying narrative patterns upon the lives of animals has not only led to the misrepresentation of the natural world, it has promoted the notion that our values, our moral vision, our models of society, and family structure derive from nature rather than being cultural formations.

To do what no other magazine does: Deliver simple, delicious food plus expert health and lifestyle information that's exclusively vegetarian but wrapped in a fresh, stylish, mainstream package that's inviting to all. Because while vegetarians are a great, vital, passionate niche, their healthy way of eating and the earth-friendly values it inspires appeals to an increasingly large group of Americans. VT's goal: To embrace both.

Regarding Life Belinda Smail, 2016-09-21. As indicated by the success of such films as March of the Penguins and Food Inc., the documentary has become the preeminent format for rendering animals and nature onscreen. In Regarding Life, Belinda Smail brings together examples from a broad array of moving image contexts.

including wildlife film and television advocacy documentary avant garde nonfiction and new media to identify a new documentary terrain in which the representation of animals in the wild and in industrial settings is becoming markedly more complex and increasingly more involved with pivotal ecological debates over species loss food production and science While attending to some of the most discussed documentaries of the last two decades including Grizzly Man Food Inc Sweetgrass Our Daily Bread and Darwin s Nightmare the book also draws on lesser known film examples and is one of the first to bring film studies understandings to new media such as YouTube The result is a study that melds film studies and animal studies to explore how documentary films render both humans and animals and to what political ends
