Cure Of Chronic Hepatitis B:

Eliminating the Public Health Problem of Hepatitis B and C in the United States National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Health and Medicine Division, Board on Population Health and Public Health Practice, Committee on a National Strategy for the Elimination of Hepatitis B and C, 2016-07-01 Hepatitis B and C cause most cases of hepatitis in the United States and the world. The two diseases account for about a million deaths a year and 78 percent of world's hepatocellular carcinoma and more than half of all fatal cirrhosis. In 2013 viral hepatitis of which hepatitis B virus (HBV) and hepatitis C virus (HCV) are the most common types surpassed HIV and AIDS to become the seventh leading cause of death worldwide. The world now has the tools to prevent hepatitis B and cure hepatitis C. Perfect vaccination could eradicate HBV but it would take two generations at least. In the meantime there is no cure for the millions of people already infected. Conversely there is no vaccine for HCV but new direct acting antivirals can cure 95 percent of chronic infections though these drugs are unlikely to reach all chronically infected people anytime soon. This report the first of two examines the feasibility of hepatitis B and C elimination in the United States and identifies critical success factors. The phase two report will outline a strategy for meeting the elimination goals discussed in this report. Hepatitis B Virus and Liver Disease

Jia-Horng Kao, 2021-08-23 This book provides a comprehensive state of the art review of HBV infection and liver disease. It discusses new data on basic and translational medicine including the viral life cycle, the immunopathogenesis of virus induced chronic hepatitis, viral and host genetic factors affecting disease progression and the mechanism of virus induced hepatocarcinogenesis as well as their potential applications in daily clinical practice. The clinical aspects of chronic HBV infection are examined in chapters on the global epidemiology, efficacy of HBV vaccination, natural history, novel biomarkers, co-infections with HCV, HDV or HIV and management of special populations including children, pregnant women and patients undergoing immunosuppressive therapy. Further it describes the advances and perspectives in the development of novel antiviral treatments for possible functional cure of HBV infection. In this second edition authors provides recent updates in epidemiology, biomarkers, antiviral therapy and novel therapy for functional cure of chronic hepatitis B virus infection. The book is a valuable resource for medical students, physicians and researchers who are interested in management of patients with chronic HBV infection and investigation of HBV infection.
