Doing History:

Doing History Mark Donnelly, Claire Norton, 2020-11-16 Doing History bridges the gap between the way history is studied in school or as represented in the media and the way it is studied at university level. History as an academic discipline has dramatically changed in recent decades and has been enhanced by ideas from other disciplines, the influence of postmodernism, and historians' incorporation of their own reflections into their work. Doing History presents the ideas and debates that shape how we do history today, covering arguments about the nature of historical knowledge and the function of historical writing, whether we can ever really know what happened in the past, what sources historians depend on, and the relative value of popular and academic histories. This revised edition includes new chapters on public history and activist histories. It looks at global representations of the past across the centuries and provides up-to-date suggestions for further reading, presenting the reader with a thorough and current introduction to studying history at an academic level, as well as a pathway to progress this study further. Clearly structured and accessibly written, it is an essential volume for all students embarking on the study of history.

Doing History: Research and Writing in the Digital Age Michael J. Galgano, J. Chris Arndt, Raymond M. Hyser, 2012-04-03 DOING HISTORY RESEARCH AND WRITING IN THE DIGITAL AGE presents a soup-to-nuts approach to researching and writing about history with an eye for making the most of current technology. The authors begin their straightforward approach with an overview of the discipline. Then they lay out a systematic approach to research, including how to locate and analyze sources, both primary and secondary; how to write the paper and cite research properly; and how to present the work in conferences. Important Notice: Media content referenced within the product description or the product text may not be available in the ebook version.

Doing History: Research and Writing in the Digital Age Michael Galgano, J. Arndt, Raymond Hyser, 2007-05-23 DOING HISTORY RESEARCHING AND WRITING IN THE DIGITAL AGE presents a soup-to-nuts approach to researching and writing about history with an eye for making the most of current technology. The authors begin their straightforward approach with an overview of the discipline. Then they lay out a systematic approach to research, covering how to analyze sources and write the paper, and finally offer examples of various citation styles. Doing History Wendy Ann Pojmann, Barbara Reeves-Ellington, Karen Ward Mahar, 2015 In this era of Twitter and text messaging, which calls into question previously accepted notions of literacy, today's students need a new and more pragmatic approach to developing writing and research skills. While a number of guides to historical research and writing and several historical methodology texts have appeared in the past several years, no single text accomplishes what Doing History: An Introduction to the Historian's Craft does. Through a unique two-part organization, authors Wendy Pojmann, Barbara Reeves-Ellington, and Karen Ward Mahar offer specific assignments to identify students' weaknesses and build their skills. They provide concrete examples of historical approaches and theories and detailed guidelines to help students complete their work within the constraints of the academic term The text integrates the complexities of historical research and writing into a single comprehensive narrative without compromising depth and breadth Its lively and accessible writing style helps students grapple with sophisticated ideas while also avoiding the pitfalls that commonly entrap them as they learn to think and write as historians The book s intellectually engaging discussions of the discipline of history in Part One the Historian s Craft are enriched by solid examples of published scholarship Students preparing research projects will benefit from straightforward guidelines for the research and writing process In addition the integrated workbook in Part Two Doing History Workbook Exercises allows them to hone their skills with assessment exercises and skill building assignments
