The Citizenship Debates, 1998 Reseña de "The Citizenship Debates. A reader" de Gershon Shafir (ed.)

Alberto Aziz Nassif, 2000 Civic Integration and Modern Citizenship Jeanine Klaver, A. W. M. Odé, 2009 In this study the experience in the Netherlands with civic integration policies will be explained in a detailed and systematic way As it stands the Netherlands presently has one of the most encompassing and coercive civic integration policies which is characterised by overseas civic integration testing a general obligation to pass a civic integration exam for all foreign nationals and the existence of an elaborate sanctioning regime Our main purpose is to understand the legitimacy of civic integration in this country particularly through analysing its main implications and effects from a broader perspective This perspective consists of an historical context a framework of modern citizenship rights and a cross border comparison of different national integration concepts The principal issues to be addressed are the political and social arguments which lay behind the introduction of civic integration policies and the extent to which these policies fit within academic notions of modern citizenship In addition the Dutch model of civic integration will be set against alternative national integration strategies as prevailing in some other immigrant receiving countries particularly Belgium Canada and the United States Publisher's description

Citizenship in a Globalizing World Ashok Acharya, 2011 In recent times the notion of citizenship has become increasingly prominent as the traditional boundaries of the nation state face challenges from globalization multiculturalism and economic restructuring In this context Citizenship in a Globalizing World is a welcome addition in the field of political science as it takes a detailed look at the topic of citizenship from the origins of both citizenship and the state to various theories of citizenship and what it means in the modern context when it has to coexist with forces of globalization and the rise of new social groups

Contesting Canadian Citizenship Dorothy Chunn, Robert Menzies, Robert Adamoski, 2002-08 Over the past 15 years the citizenship debate in political and social theory has undergone an extraordinary renaissance To date much of the writing on citizenship within and beyond Canada has been oriented toward the development of theory or has concentrated on contemporary issues and examples This collection of essays adopts a different approach by contextualizing and historicizing the citizenship debate through studies of various aspects of the rise of social citizenship in Canada Focusing on the formative years from the late 19th through mid 20th century contributors examine how emerging discourse and practices in diverse areas of Canadian social life created a widely engaged but often deeply contested vision of the new Canadian citizen The original essays examine key developments in the fields of welfare justice health childhood family immigration education labour media popular culture and recreation highlighting the contradictory nature of Canadian citizenship The implications of these projects for the daily lives of Canadians their identities and the forms of resistance that they mounted are central themes Contributing authors situate their historical accounts in both public and private domains their analyses emphasizing the mutual permeability of state and civil ian life These diverse investigations reveal that while Canadian citizenship conveys crucial images of identity security and participatory democracy within the ongoing project of nation building it is also interlaced with the projects of a hierarchical social structure and exclusionary political order This collection explores the origins and evolution of Canadian citizenship in historical context It also introduces the more general dilemmas and debates in social history and political theory that inevitably inform these inquiries
