The Healer-Prophet in Afro-Christian Churches Gerhardus C. Oosthuizen, 2016-05-18 Apart from the mainline Pentecostal and Zionist churches there are different types of African Independent Indigenous Churches AIC The greater part of the more than four thousand denominations and eight million adherents came into the AIC during the past three decades mainly from the traditional African religious background The important role of the diviner in the traditional society has been replaced by the prophet in the AIC the prophet understands the worldview of his/her people especially the cultural diseases In some churches the office of prophet cum diviner is represented by one person The AIC movement is the most dynamic church movement in many parts of Africa especially Southern Africa The consistent growth of these churches can largely be accounted for by the healing procedures they use which are highlighted in this study Dr Oosthuizen approaches healing from various angles as sickness is not only determined by physical and psychological factors but also by disturbed human relationships and socio-political and economic tensions

Prophecy and Power Among the Dogrib Indians June Helm, 1994-01-01 The Dogrib Indians are one of the Dene people of Western Canadian Subarctic they speak a language belonging to the widespread Athapaskan family whose southern relatives include the Navajos and Apaches of the southwestern United States This study draws on the author's field studies from 1959 to 1974 to present an ethnographic description of Dogrib religion The first part of the book introduces three prophets who came to prominence in the 1960s and 1970s Though they developed from the same tradition and had the same aims their prophetic styles contrasted dramatically with one another Helm situates the prophetic movement in relation to tribal and Christian traditions and shows the determining importance of the prophets' personalities in shaping their teachings The second part of the book examines the traditional Dogrib concept of power in relation to information given over the course of the years by Vital Thomas a religious leader who collaborated closely with Helm This firsthand material told in Thomas's own words is noteworthy for its personal perspective and for the understanding it provides of the differing sources and uses of power This concept of power is so pervasive in daily life that it forms the key for understanding the dynamics of Dogrib culture The book concludes with a brief autobiography related by Vital Thomas Prophecy and Power among the Dogrib Indians is important for documenting the prophet movement among the Dene people in the late twentieth century and for situating it historically in the context of Dogrib traditional culture
