Computer Supported Cooperative Work in Design IV Weiming Shen,Jianming Yong,Yun Yang,Jean-Paul A. Barthès,Junzhou Luo,2008-12-18 Design of complex artifacts and systems requires the cooperation of multidisciplinary design teams using multiple sophisticated commercial and non commercial engineering tools such as CAD tools modeling simulation and optimization software engineering databases and knowledge based systems Individuals or individual groups of multidisciplinary design teams usually work in parallel and independently with various engineering tools which are located on different sites often for quite a long period of time At any moment individual members may be working on different versions of a design or viewing the design from various perspectives at different levels of details In order to meet these requirements it is necessary to have efficient computer supported collaborative design systems These systems should not only automate individual tasks in the manner of traditional computer aided engineering tools but also enable individual members to share information collaborate and coordinate their activities within the context of a design project Based on close international collaboration between the University of Technology of Compi gne in France and the Institute of Computing Technology of the Chinese Academy of Sciences in the early 1990s a series of international workshops on CSCW in Design started in 1996 In order to facilitate the organization of these workshops an International Working Group on CSCW in Design CSCWD was established and an International Steering Committee was formed in 1998 The series was converted to international conferences in 2000 building on the success of the four previous workshops

Workflow Management Systems for Process Organisations Thomas Schael,2007-12-03 All of us have learned a lot during this exercise and the enormous success of the first edition of this book shows the great international interest for the topic and the results. A French edition appeared last year and met with equal interest. Springer Verlag has therefore decided to publish a second edition of this book which is not just a reprint but brings the literature and results to the newest state. This is a rare occurrence in the history of the LNCS series. We congratulate Thomas Schael on this success and we are sure that reader scientists and practitioners will likewise profit from it.

Preface to the Second Edition

This book is a bit of a mixture of scientific and management literature. It is based on my research activities in the CSCW community and also reflects the last ten years of my professional experience in consulting. I have had the opportunity to live in different cultural settings, to work in many companies and to meet people all over the world, which has helped me to reflect on what I was doing and to focus on the content of this book. This second edition reflects the fast moving field of Computer Supported Cooperative Work (CSCW) and the discussion on Business Process Re-engineering (BPR). It contains the latest developments in the scientific and managerial discussion of the issues developed in the first edition.

Computer-supported Cooperative Work and Groupware, Saul Greenberg, 1991. Based upon the International Journal of Man Machine Studies special editions published in February and March of 1991. It will also inform the active computer supported cooperative work researcher of several new projects and perspectives. With an exhaustive bibliography, this will be an essential book for researchers in human computer interaction and artificial intelligence, expert systems builders, and user interface designers.

Computer Supported Cooperative Work, Michael D. Covert, Lori Foster, Thompson, 2000-12-22. Collaborative Work, Social Communications, and Information Systems, Ronald K. Stamper, 1991. In the past, computer based information systems have been designed primarily for hierarchically structured organizations reinforcing a single unified world view This has been reflected in the design methods such as validity and consistency checking information systems architecture and information system use theories Alternative organizational structures such as clans network organizations inter organizational alliances and markets have different requirements thus necessitating the emergence of a new perspective in information systems As we develop information systems in the future we must think of the user no longer as an individual but as a community Fifteen excellent papers from the many interesting submissions are included in these proceedings along with four invited papers by leading representatives in the field Also included are the briefing notes for four provocative panel discussions
