Multi-Dimensional Analysis, 25 years on Tony Berber Sardinha, Marcia Veirano Pinto, 2014-07-15 Approximately a quarter of a century ago the Multi Dimensional MD approach one of the most powerful and controversial methods in Corpus Linguistics saw its first book length treatment In its eleven chapters this volume presents all new contributions covering a wide range of written and spoken registers such as movies music magazine texts student writing social media letters to the editor and reports in different languages English Spanish Portuguese and contexts engineering journalism the classroom the entertainment industry the Internet etc The book also includes a personal account of the development of the method by its creator Doug Biber an introduction to MD statistics as well as an application of MD analysis to corpus design The book should be essential reading to anyone with an interest in how texts genres and registers are used in society what their lexis and grammar look like and how they are interrelated Dimensions Thomas Howard Brown, Jeffrey T. Gross, 1980 The Psychology of Written Composition Carl Bereiter, Marlene Scardamalia, 2013-11-05 First Published in 1987 Part of a series on the psychology of education and instruction this volume marks a highpoint in the development on writing from a cognitive perspective It significantly expands the data base upon which our understanding of writing rests the book presents an original theory or at any rate the beginnings of a theory of writing and the development of writing skills emphasizing the control processes in writing Advances in Corpus-based Research on Academic Writing Ute Römer, Viviana

Cortes, Eric Friginal, 2020-02-15 This volume showcases some of the latest research on academic writing by leading and up and coming corpus linguists The studies included in the volume are based on a wide range of corpora spanning first and second language academic writing at different levels of writing expertise containing texts from a variety of academic disciplines and sub disciplines and of different academic registers Particularly novel aspects of the collection are the inclusion of research that combines rhetorical moves with multi dimensional analysis studies that cover both fixed and variable phraseological items lexical bundles phrase frames constructions and work that is based on corpora of English as an academic lingua franca Going beyond merely summarizing their findings the authors also discuss what their research means for academic writing practice and pedagogical settings The volume will be of interest to researchers students and teachers who would like to expand their knowledge of how academic writing functions and what it looks like in a variety of contexts

The Religious Dimension of Intercultural Education Heid Leganger-Krogstad, 2011 This book explores the religious dimension in intercultural education and states that religion plays a key role in value conflicts and worldview differences in schools in pluralistic societies Religion is considered having a double role both as the reason for deep differences in mental mapping and worldviews and as a contributor to intercultural understanding and dialogue The book discusses the role religion has in education both at an institutional level in the whole school society and in Religious Education as a specific school subject Underlying Western worldviews in subject curricula and subject didactics need to be revealed and contested to increase the benefit of education for all students It argues for the need of a contextual understanding to help teaching and learning address religious diversity in schools

Theory and Practice of Writing William Grabe, Robert B. Kaplan, 2014-09-25 This book undertakes a general framework within which to consider the complex nature of the writing task in English both as a first and as a second language The volume explores varieties of writing different purposes for learning to write extended text and cross cultural variation among second language writers The volume overviews textlinguistic research explores process approaches to writing discusses writing for professional purposes and contrastive rhetoric It proposes a model for text construction as well as a framework for a more general theory of writing Later chapters organised around seventy five themes for writing instruction are devoted to the teaching of writing at the beginning intermediate and advanced levels Writing assessment and other means for responding to writing are also discussed William Grabe and Robert Kaplan summarise various theoretical strands that have been recently explored by applied linguists and other writing researchers and draw these strands together into a coherent overview of the nature of written text Finally they suggest methods for the teaching of writing consistent with the nature processes and social context of writing

Personality and the Teaching of Composition George H. Jensen, John K. DiTiberio, 1989 Researchers seem to have made little progress toward better understanding the nature and importance of individual differences The authors present a paradigm to explain such differences so that researchers will be better able to study the wide variety of approaches that students employ The volume synthesizes and expands the large body of research on individual differences and shows how personality theory can explain the kinds of individual differences found in writing processes written products teaching styles and other areas The authors discuss how personality theory can be used to help students develop their writing skills in a process more suited to their personality type and demonstrate how teachers responses to student writing is to some extent a reflection of their personality type
