

Purpose of This Handbook

This handbook serves as a practical guide to providing healthy meals and snacks to employees in resource-constrained settings.

Who is this handbook for?

- Businesses that offer snacks or a single-meal choice to employees during the workday. This handbook provides information to help managers, chefs, cooks and caterers decide what and how much to serve
- Employers that do not currently offer food to employees but are interested in taking the first steps towards a workforce nutrition programme

Not for - offices or other workplaces that host a paid canteen with multiple food choices. See the Resources page on the handbook's website for materials for canteens.

What is covered?

- Guidance on how to provide healthy meals and snacks to employees
- Information on how offering healthy food to employees can benefit businesses

Not covered - other types of workforce nutrition programmes, such as breastfeeding support, nutrition education, nutrition focused health checks or physical activity. See the Resources page on the handbook's website for other workforce nutrition programme materials.

Why is workforce nutrition important?

- Guidance on how to provide healthy meals and snacks to employees
- Information on how offering healthy food to employees can benefit businesses

Not Just for Businesses

While this handbook serves as a practical guide for businesses, it can also be used by other organisations that offer food to employees, such as non-profits, civil societies, academic or government organisations.
