DESIGN AGAINST CRIME

"If a group of scholars and designers in London has its way, a new wave of cleverly designed bags and cafe furniture will help foil the city's thieves while remaining easy on the eyes..."

Design for Behaviour Change Kristina Niedderer, Stephen Clune, Geke Ludden, 2017-08-23 Design impacts every part of our lives The design of products and services influences the way we go about our daily activities and it is hard to imagine any activity in our daily lives that is not dependent on design in some capacity Clothing mobile phones computers cars tools and kitchenware all enable and hold in place everyday practices Despite design s omnipresence the understanding of how design may facilitate desirable behaviours is still fragmented with limited frameworks and examples of how design can effect change in professional and public contexts This text presents an overview of current approaches dedicated to understanding how design may be used intentionally to make changes to improve a range of problematic social and environmental issues It offers a cross disciplinary and cross sectoral overview of different academic theories adopted and applied to design for behaviour change The aim of the volume is twofold firstly to provide an overview of existing design models that integrate theories of change from differing scientific backgrounds secondly to offer an overview of application of key design for behaviour change approaches as used across case studies in different sectors such as design for health and wellbeing sustainability safety design against crime and social design Design for Behaviour Change will appeal to designers design students and practitioners of behavioural change

Transformation Design Wolfgang Jonas, Sarah Zerwas, Kristof von Anshelm, 2015-11-27 Transformation design is looking for new ways to change our behavior and society through new forms of innovation The existing user oriented approach of design must therefore be extended to one that is society oriented The concept of transformation is based on the anthropologist Karl Paul Polanyi and his book The Great Transformation 1944 which described the emergence of the now almost undisputed and globally widespread western market logic the transformation of societies with markets into market societies which he calls dislodgment of the markets Meanwhile leading think tanks are referring to Polanyi They are calling for a new social contract and the re embedding of the market into society What are the possible instruments and contributions of design for this new Great Transformation The variety of the above questions answers theories methods ideas and projects suggests that transformation design is not in fact a discipline in itself but that it will lead to a fruitful discourse The book attempts to form an initial position in terms of this ambitious and ethical design perspective It also seeks to inspire the international debate to push for a project of responsible design

Design Against Crime Stephen Town, Caroline L. Davey, Andrew B. Wootton, 2003 Arts in Criminal Justice and Corrections Amanda Gardner, Laura Caulfield, 2024-11-18 Offering a lively international and interdisciplinary introduction to research on arts programmes in prisons Arts in Criminal Justice and Corrections is the first volume to bring together leading figures from the USA the UK Australia New Zealand and Belgium to explore key methodological approaches and issues through the lens of the researchers themselves Beginning with the original pioneers of research into the arts in corrections in the USA in the 1980s this book highlights the role of researchers in evidencing impact and influencing policy Contributors include those who were themselves once incarcerated and those who have transitioned from practitioner to criminologist Chapters lay the groundwork for discussion on how an important avenue for rehabilitation and re entry can be developed providing a call to action for more research into a field which holds promise for building a more just equitable and inclusive society This book is essential reading for criminologists engaged in prisons corrections and desistance research as well as researchers and practitioners in the arts and rehabilitation

Design Against Crime Andrew Norman Murray, University of Manchester. School of Mechanical, Aerospace and Civil Engineering, 2010 Design Against Crime Omagano Adelina Kankondi, 2015-11-17 This study explores the possibilities of using design interventions in mitigating crime The study employs the Design Against Crime DAC philosophy in dealing with crime which provides a holistic perspective regarding crime and related issues High crime levels in South Africa necessitate alternative approaches to dealing with crime as it is becoming evident that the old strategies that have been utilised are not providing the desired effects The focus is on the emergence of crime amongst youth at risk living in communities in tension and more specifically the Bridgetown community near Cape Town Communities which constitute the lower socio economic income level usually suffer the most with regards to crime The effects of crime negatively influence the development of the community allowing the cycle of poverty and crime to continue If the cycle of crime can be broken in these communities development may take place which will strengthen them in a number of ways including their standing in society In order to gain a better understanding of the crime situation in South Africa the study investigates the country s crime history and its widespread effects on society today
