Arthur Conan Doyle, Sir

Croxley Master:

The Croxley Master Arthur Conan Doyle, 1907 MR ROBERT MONTGOMERY was seated at his desk his head upon his hands in a state of the blackest despondency Before him was the open ledger with the long columns of Dr Oldacre s prescriptions At his elbow lay the wooden tray with the labels in various partitions the cork box the lumps of twisted sealing wax while in front a rank of empty bottles waited to be filled But his spirits were too low for work He sat in silence with his fine shoulders bowed and his head upon his hands Outside through the grimy surgery window over a foreground of blackened brick and slate a line of enormous chimneys like Cyclopean pillars upheld the lowering dun coloured cloud bank For six days in the week they spouted smoke but to day the furnace fires were banked for it was Sunday Sordid and polluting gloom hung over a district blighted and blasted by the greed of man There was nothing in the surroundings to cheer a desponding soul but it was more than his dismal environment which weighed upon the medical assistant His trouble was deeper and more personal The winter session was approaching He should be back again at the University completing the last year which would give him his medical degree but alas he had not the money with which to pay his class fees nor could he imagine how he could procure it Sixty pounds were wanted to make his career and it might have been as many thousands for any chance there seemed to be of his obtaining it prospered exceedingly by the support of the local Church interest and the rule of his life was never by word or action to run a risk of offending the sentiment which had made him His standard of respectability and of dignity was exceedingly high and he expected the same from his assistants His appearance and words were always vaguely benevolent A sudden impulse came over the despondent student He would test the reality of this philanthropy I beg your pardon Dr Oldacre said he rising from his chair I have a great favour to ask of you The doctor s appearance was not encouraging His mouth suddenly tightened and his eyes fell Yes Mr Montgomery You are aware sir that I need only one more session to complete my course So you have told me
