Oxford Handbook of Ancient Greek Religion Esther Eidinow, Julia Kindt, 2015-10-01 This handbook offers both students and teachers of ancient Greek religion a comprehensive overview of the current state of scholarship in the subject from the Archaic to the Hellenistic periods It not only presents key information but also explores the ways in which such information is gathered and the different approaches that have shaped the area In doing so the volume provides a crucial research and orientation tool for students of the ancient world and also makes a vital contribution to the key debates surrounding the conceptualization of ancient Greek religion The handbook's initial chapters lay out the key dimensions of ancient Greek religion approaches to evidence and the representations of myths The following chapters discuss the continuities and differences between religious practices in different cultures including Egypt the Near East the Black Sea and Bactria and India The range of contributions emphasizes the diversity of relationships between mortals and the supernatural in all their manifestations across between and beyond ancient Greek cultures and draws attention to religious activities as dynamic highlighting how they changed over time place and context The Architectural Model Matthew Mindrup, 2019-10-08 An investigation of different uses for the architectural model through history as sign souvenir funerary object didactic tool medium for design and architect's muse For more than five hundred years architects have employed three dimensional models as tools to test refine and illustrate their ideas But as Matthew Mindrup shows the uses of physical architectural models extend beyond mere representation An architectural model can also simulate instruct inspire and generate architectural designs It can be among other things sign souvenir toy funerary object didactic tool medium or muse In this book Mindrup surveys the history of architectural models by investigating their uses both theoretical and practical Tracing the architectural model's development from antiquity to the present Mindrup also offers an interpretive framework for understanding each of its applications in the context of time and place He first examines models meant to portray extant fantastic or proposed structures describing their use in ancient funerary or dedicatory practices in which models are endowed with magical power as a medium for architectural reverie and inspiration and as prototypes for twentieth century experimental designs Mindrup then considers models that exemplify certain architectural uses exploring the influence of Leon Battista Alberti's dictum that models be simple lest they distract from the architect's ideas analyzing the model as a generative tool and investigating allegorical analogical and anagogical interpretations of models Mindrup's histories show how the model can be a surrogate for the architectural structure itself or for the experience of its formal tactile and sensory complexity and beyond that that the manipulation play experimentation and dreaming enabled by models allow us to imagine architecture in new ways

Nemrud Dagi Herman Brijder, 2014-08-25 This richly illustrated book presents in detail the sanctuaries built during the reign of Antiochus I of Commagene ca 75-36 BCE including the three large tombs and ten cult places and discusses Antiochus' rule in the context of his religious program and cult of the divine ruler This book is the final publication of the results of the International Nemrud Dagi Project 2001-2003

The Alphabet and the Algorithm Mario Carpo, 2011-02-04 The rise and fall of identical copies digital technologies and form making from mass customization to mass collaboration Digital technologies have changed architecture the way it is taught practiced managed and regulated But if the digital has created a paradigm shift for architecture which paradigm is shifting In The Alphabet and the Algorithm Mario Carpo points to one key practice of modernity the making of identical copies Carpo highlights two examples of identity crucial to the shaping of architectural modernity in the fifteenth century Leon Battista Alberti's invention of architectural design according to which a building is an identical copy of the architect's design and in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries the mass production of identical copies from mechanical master models matrices imprints or molds The modern power of the identical Carpo argues came to an end with the rise of digital technologies Everything digital is variable In architecture this means the end of notational limitations of mechanical standardization and of the Albertian authorial way of building by design Charting the rise and fall of the paradigm of identity Carpo compares new forms of postindustrial digital craftsmanship to hand making and the cultures and technologies of variations that existed before the coming of machine made identical copies Carpo reviews the unfolding of digitally based design and construction from the early 1990s to the present and suggests a new agenda for architecture in an age of variable objects and of generic and participatory authorship

The American Scholar William Allison Shimer, 1976 Studies in Tectonic Culture Kenneth Frampton, 2001-08-24 Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book's analytical framework rests on Frampton's close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present Kenneth Frampton's long awaited follow up to his classic A Critical History of Modern Architecture is certain to influence any future debate on the evolution of modern architecture Studies in Tectonic Culture is nothing less than a rethinking of the entire modern architectural tradition The notion of tectonics as employed by Frampton the focus on architecture as a constructional craft constitutes a direct challenge to current mainstream thinking on the artistic limits of postmodernism and suggests a convincing alternative Indeed Frampton argues modern architecture is invariably as much about structure and construction as it is about space and abstract form Composed of ten essays and an epilogue that trace the history of contemporary form as an evolving poetic of structure and construction the book's analytical framework rests on Frampton's close readings of key French and German and English sources from the eighteenth century to the present He clarifies the various turns that structural engineering and tectonic imagination have taken in the work of such architects as Perret Wright Kahn Scarpa and Mies and shows how both constructional form and material character were integral to an evolving architectural expression of their work Frampton also demonstrates that the way in which these elements are articulated from one work to the next provides a basis upon which to evaluate the works as a whole This is especially evident in his consideration of the work of Perret Mies and Kahn and the continuities in their thought and attitudes that linked them to the past Frampton considers the conscious cultivation of the tectonic tradition in architecture as an essential element in the future development of architectural form casting a critical new light on the entire issue of modernity and on the place of much work that has passed as avant garde A copublication of the Graham Foundation for Advanced Studies and The MIT Press Journal of Field Archaeology Association for Field Archaeology,1983 Palaces and Large Residences of the Hellenistic Age Bonnie Lea Kutbay,1998 Synthetic examination of the architectural material clarifying the nature of palaces and large identifying architectural forms most commonly found and examining their sources With illustrations
