HOLMES, 2018 America's Ancient Cities Gene S. Stuart, 1988 Examines ancient cities in the Americas, revealing how settlements evolved and how urban centers grew and functioned. The Ancient Cities of the New World Désiré Charnay, 2024-02-05 The Ancient Cities of the New World by Désiré Charnay is a detailed account of the author's explorations and studies of ancient civilizations in Mexico and Central America. Charnay, who had previously visited Mexico in 1857, returned in 1880 with better preparation and resources thanks to the support of both the French government and the American philanthropist Mr. Lorillard. This opportunity allowed Charnay to conduct extensive research and document his findings, which he generously shared with France. The narrative begins with Charnay's arrival in Vera Cruz, a city marked by its Eastern architectural influences and notorious for its unhealthy climate due to yellow fever. The journey from Vera Cruz to Mexico City is described in vivid detail, highlighting the shift from the warm coastal region to the temperate and then cold zones as the railway ascends through the Sierra. Charnay reflects on the changes brought by the railway, which replaced the picturesque muleteer caravans and transformed the landscape and local economy. The text also delves into the historical and cultural significance of cities like Puebla and Cholula, known for their religious architecture and historical importance. Charnay's work is not just a travelogue but a scholarly attempt to reconstruct the history of the Toltecs and other ancient civilizations using both archaeological evidence and historical texts His observations and theories challenge previous misconceptions and offer a new perspective on the origins and development of these civilizations Standard Guide to the City of Mexico and Vicinity Robert South Barrett,1900 The Ancient Cities of the New World Désiré Charnay,1888 Born in France Charnay 1828 1915 travelled extensively through commissions from the French government and with private patronage He made several visits to the region between 1857 and 1886 producing in his work both a journal of his adventures and an archaeological examination of past civilizations Beginning in Mexico Charnay notably examines the ancient city of Tula and also the history of Yucatán discussing aspects of Toltec and Mayan culture He explores the ruins of Chichen Itza Kabah and Yaxchilan which Charnay dubbed Lorillard Town after a benefactor among many other settlements Surveying art pyramid architecture ancient customs and history based on extant sources this account was a major contribution in its field and remains of interest to scholars of Latin American archaeology Historical Data from Ancient Records and Ruins of Mexico and Central America Louis Edward Hills,1919 Modern Mexico's Standard Guide to the City of Mexico and Vicinity Robert South Barrett,1903 Terry's Guide to Mexico Thomas Philip Terry,1922
