Andras Ungar:

Irish Literature Mary Ketsin, 2004 Irish literature's roots have been traced to the 7th-9th century. This is a rich and hardy literature starting with descriptions of the brave deeds of kings, saints, and other heroes. These were followed by generous veins of religious, historical, genealogical, scientific, and other works. The development of prose, poetry, and drama raced along with the times. Modern well-known Irish writers include William Yeats, James Joyce, Sean Casey, George Bernard Shaw, Oscar Wilde, John Synge, and Samuel Beckett. The Evolutions of Modernist Epic Václav Paris, 2021-01-07

Modernist epic is more interesting and more diverse than we have supposed. As a radical form of national fiction, it appeared in many parts of the world in the early twentieth century. Reading a selection of works from the United States, England, Ireland, Czechoslovakia, and Brazil, The Evolutions of Modernist Epic develops a comparative theory of this genre and its global development. That development, it argues, is bound up with new ideas about biological evolution. During the first decades of the twentieth century, a period known in the history of evolutionary science as the eclipse of Darwinism, evolution's significance was questioned, rethought, and ultimately confined to the Neo-Darwinist discourse with which we are familiar today. Epic fiction participated in and was shaped by this shift. Drawing on queer forms of sexuality to cultivate anti-heroic and non-progressive modes of telling national stories, the genre contested reductive and reactionary forms of social Darwinism. The book describes how, in doing so, the genre asks us to revisit our assumptions about ethnolinguistics and organic nationalism. It also models how the history of evolutionary thought can provide a new basis for comparing diverse modernisms and their peculiar nativisms. Treated Like a Child, 2025-09-25 One of the core principles of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child is non-discrimination. However, little attention has been given to how this principle can protect children from discrimination because of age and childhood. This anthology brings together experts from children's rights studies to explore both overall issues related to discrimination of children as well as non-legitimate differential treatment in specific contexts including climate crisis, child labour, migration, healthcare, and child protection. Attention is drawn to the potential to advance children's rights in the framework of non-discrimination in relation to children as a group.

Virgil and Joyce Randall J. Pogorzelski, 2016-04-05 Illuminates how James Joyce's Ulysses was influenced not just by Homer's Odyssey but by Virgil's Aeneid as both authors confronted issues of nationalism, colonialism, and political violence, whether in imperial Rome or revolutionary Ireland.
