Boxing Platos Shadow An Introduction To The Study Of Human Communication:

Boxing Plato's Shadow Michael Dues, Mary Brown, 1998-12-01 Boxing Plato's Shadow: An Introduction to the Study of Human Communication Michael Dues, Mary Brown, 2004 Designed to introduce students to the academic discipline of Communication this text describes the scope and methods of communication studies and sketches its history from the work of the early sophists to contemporary research efforts Boxing Plato's Shadow helps explain why despite its long and venerable history of scholarly endeavor Communication continues to struggle for recognition of its legitimate place in the academy Throughout the authors emphasize the field's durability over more than two millennia and the merits of multiple systematic approaches to the study of communication LSC CPSU (UNIV OF ARIZONA) Boxing Plato's Shadow: An Introduction to the Study of Human Communication Michael Dues, Mary Brown, 2014-09-03 Designed to introduce students to the academic discipline of Communication this brief supplementary text describes the scope and methods of Communication Study and sketches its history from the work of the early sophists to contemporary research efforts The authors address the subject inclusively arguing that Communication Study is a sound social science a humanity and a practical art Discussions of methods are balanced including quantitative and qualitative social science and modern and postmodern critical approaches The book helps explain why despite its long and venerable history of scholarly endeavor Communication continues to struggle for recognition of its legitimate place in the academy Throughout the authors emphasize the field's durability over more than two millennia and the merits of multiple systematic approaches to the study of communication This book serves well in introductory Communication courses and as an overview in methodology courses and may also be useful for beginning graduate students as an orientation to the discipline Models of Communication Mats Bergman, Kęstas Kirtiklis, Johan Siebers, 2019-10-16 Models of Communication offers a timely reassessment of the significance of modelling in media and communication studies From a rich variety of different perspectives the collected essays explore the past present and future uses of communication models in ordinary discourses concerning communication as well as in academic research This book challenges received views of communication models and opens up new paths of inquiry for communication research By zooming in on the manifestations and purposes of modelling in ordinary discourses on communication as well as in theoretical expositions the essays collected in this volume cast new light on the problems and prospects of models crafted for the benefit of communication inquiry Complementing earlier studies of models of communication the volume digs deep into fundamental epistemological and ontological questions concerning modelling in the communication disciplines but it also presents several novel models that promise to be of practical use in empirical studies of media and communication The book is intended for communication scholars and students of media and will also be of interest for related disciplines in the humanities and the social sciences Communication as ... Gregory J. Shepherd, Jeffrey St. John, 2006 In Communication as Perspectives on Theory editors Gregory J Shepherd Jeffrey St John and Ted Striphas bring together a collection of 27 essays that explores the wide range of theorizing about communication cutting across all lines of traditional division in the field. The essays in this text are written by leading scholars in the field of communication theory with each scholar employing a particular stance or perspective on what communication theory is and how it functions. In essays that are brief, argumentative, and forceful, the scholars propose their perspective as a primary or essential way of viewing communication with decided benefits over other views.

The Communicative Relationship Between Dialogue and Care Marie Baker-Ohler, Annette Holba, 2009. This book provides insight into the nature of the relationship between dialogue and care. The work is textured and mindful of the human need for authentic communication between embedded human communicative agents. This is because the authors are well versed in the field, having published articles, books, and book chapters dealing with the cultivation of human communication and human relationships through aspects of care, dialogue, and other philosophical preconditions. This study approaches the relationship of care and dialogue through a constructive hermeneutic approach situated within the current historical moment while relying on a rich and textured historical tradition of philosophical writings that invite new discussion on the value of this relationship. In a historical era of rapidly changing technologies, it is often easier to text, tweet, and e-mail in a hypertext mode that fails to acknowledge the dialogic potential in human relationships. This book reminds us that even in these technologically sophisticated times, we gain more in human relationships through care and dialogue than in quick, instant communication. It is unique from other books dealing with the relationship between dialogue and care in human relationships because it integrates literature involving communication ethics and philosophies of communication framed around the metaphor of care to provide a more textured insight related to human communication. The discussion is an alternative to a social scientific approach. Readers will gain a thorough and comprehensive understanding of the issues involved from different perspectives. Many other books on these matters are also theoretically laden with deep philosophical concepts but they are often devoid of connections to everyday experiences which limits application of the ideas. The authors address this by a text that explores those philosophical and theoretically laden concepts related to care in an applied manner so that the practice of these ideas is situated within actual human interaction. This study provides an in-depth exploration specifically dealing with care as a philosophical and ethical paradigm for living in the world. This book is distinctive as it encompasses theorists, scholars from multiple perspectives that include sociological, psychological, philosophical, and from both social science and humanities approaches, all of which come together within a communication framework. The purpose of this book is to provide readers with the opportunity to consider multiple ways of enhancing human communication through discovering how the notion of care has the ability to shape and guide communicative exchanges. Care is posited as a philosophy of communication and more specifically as a communicative ethic that can be embraced in interpersonal and organizational communicative contexts. Our goal is to provide a textured understanding of care as it relates to human communication and as it is foregrounded in philosophical thought. This text will help develop philosophical understanding of this topic that is inescapably linked to human communication This book will interest all in communication sociology psychology and anthropology Embodiment, Relation, Community Garnet C. Butchart, 2019-01-08 In this volume Garnet C Butchart shows how human communication can be understood as embodied relations and not merely as a mechanical process of transmission Expanding on contemporary philosophies of speech and language self and other and community and immunity this book challenges many common assumptions constructs and problems of communication theory while offering compelling new resources for future study Human communication has long been characterized as a problem of transmitting information or the outward sharing of inner thought through mediated channels of exchange Butchart questions that model and the various theories to which it gives rise Drawing from the work of Giorgio Agamben Roberto Esposito Jean Luc Nancy and Jacques Lacan thinkers who along with Martin Heidegger and Michel Foucault have critiqued the modern notion of a rational subject Butchart shows that the subject is shaped by language rather than preformed and that humans embody and not just use the signs and contexts of interaction that form what he calls a communication community Accessibly written and engagingly researched Embodiment Relation Community is relevant for researchers and advanced students of communication cultural studies translation and rhetorical studies especially those who work with a humanistic or interpretive paradigm LiveJournal and Russian Disinformation J.J.
