Truth or Chore It Looks Better on You Jane Westaway, Tessa Copland, 2003 When editors Tessa Copland and Jane Westaway called on NZ writers to pay tribute to women's friendships they knew from the start what they didn't want: Not sentiment. Not sociology. Not celebrity chat. We looked for true stories from writers willing to go public on an intimate aspect of their lives. The result is a gritty and touching look at the durable, flexible and sustaining relationship which Fleur Adcock depicts as far more permanent than God than marriage. Describing the sea is probably simpler than cataloguing the breadth and depth of women's friendships. But these stories and poems splash through the shallows of primary school, navigate the shoals of adolescence and the swift currents of early marriage and motherhood, then strike out for the depths of mid-life and later. Linley Boniface launches in first with a harrowing account of fire at sea and her subsequent rescue from nightmares. Linda Burgess describes a fortysomething girl's only garden visiting weekend where love, the real thing, is chewed over. Jenny Robin Jones steers through a turbulent triangle. Kate De Goldi praises sisterhood. Dame Fiona Kidman recalls her thirty-year friendship with the late Lauris Edmond. Paula Boock and Lynne Cardy give two versions of their Starsky and Hutch era. Marilyn Duckworth wistfully recalls a friendship capsized by mental illness. Do Something Different Jurgen Wolff, 2001 This volume built around 100 case studies contains advice on how to take charge of your situation and create your own alternatives. It offers examples of entrepreneurs who took a sideways look at the market and their competitors and decided to branch out and do something a little bit surprising. As a result, they made their products and their companies stand out among the competition. Boyfriend Training Flash Cards Trishelle Ames, 2007-04 Not all boyfriends come dating ready, so give your guy a little basic training with these humorous flash cards. They make it so easy to teach him those all-important relationship dos and don'ts: on one side, an icon that captures the card's subject and on the other is advice on how to handle the problem. And they cover the essentials in a way he'll instantly grasp, from putting the toilet seat down to opening doors to gasp, handing over the remote control. Give him guidance on what's appropriate conversation, telling you how great you look for example, acceptable mannerisms and proper dress. In no time at all, he'll wow your family, friends, co-workers and YOU.

Match Day Brian Eule, 2009-03-03 Three new doctors, all women, struggle to balance professional ambitions and personal relationships, triumphs and crises, uncertainties and decisions through one pressure-packed day and the first year of their careers in medicine. Each year on the third Thursday in March, more than 15,000 graduating medical students exult, despair and endure Match Day, the decision of a controversial computer algorithm which matches students with hospital residencies in every field of medicine. The match determines where each graduate will be assigned the crucial first job as an intern and shapes the rest of his or her life. In Match Day, Brian Eule follows three women from the anxious months before the match through the completion of their first year of internship. Each woman makes mistakes, saves lives and witnesses death; each must keep or jettison the man in her life; each comes to learn what it means to heal, to comfort, to lose and to grieve while maintaining a professional demeanor. Just as One L became the essential book about the education of
