Aggression And Evolution:

Aggression and Evolution ,1973 The Evolution of Violence Todd K. Shackelford,Ranald D. Hansen,2013-11-09 This volume is an interdisciplinary exploration of our understanding of the causes and consequences of violence Represented in its chapters are noted scholars from a variety of fields including psychology anthropology law and literature The contributions reflect a broad scope of inquiry and diverse levels of analysis With an underlying evolutionary theme each of the contributors invoke their separate areas of expertise offering empirical and theoretical insights to this complex subject The multi faceted aspect of the book is meant to engender new perspectives that will synthesize current knowledge and lead to a more nuanced understanding of an ever timely issue in human behavior Of additional interest is a foreword written by world renowned psychologist Steven Pinker and an afterword by noted evolutionary scholar Richard Dawkins Human Evolution and Male Aggression Anne Innis Dagg, Lee Harding,2012 Popular and scientific literature is still permeated with male aggression as a product of long evolution The fact that violent aggression appears in the archeological records less than half as long ago as artistic expression should give pause to any student of human behavior Humans are nothing like apes chimpanzees bonobos gorillas or orangutans which developed their mating systems independently from humans and from each other Chimpanzees have a promiscuous mating system bonobos are completely hedonistic gorillas have a harem system and orangutans are essentially solitary In those species males may compete with each other so aggression can occur Gibbons would be a better model for human behavior because they live in nuclear families several ages of dependant offspring living with adults for many years and are never aggressive toward each other Nuclear families are intimately tied to peaceful living because once established there is no need for aggression except for defence of territory against outsiders Although male aggression is a sad fact of modern society factors other than genetic heritage should be examined to explain this This book reviews the recent advances in the knowledge of human evolution that have greatly changed our conceptions It has been uncovered that humans are nothing like chimpanzees and far less like baboons Early humans never knuckle walked left the jungle for the savannah where they roamed widely in dispersed populations and for more than four million years lived in small groups or relatively peaceable societies with fathers raising children and joining with other adult males for community projects Human Evolution and Male Aggression dispels misconceptions based on flawed interpretations of biology and behavior It tells the compelling story of the human male s peaceful past It summarizes recent advances in understanding of bones brains hormones and genetics that reveals humans for who they are In reviewing the behavior of other primate males and their relationship to females and infants it sets the stage for a new paradigm of male behaviour one in which aggression though possible is suppressed most of the time in favor of affiliative behaviors that benefit females infants and society as a whole Encompassing topics relevant to biological and social sciences this book will be of interest to students of primatology evolutionary biology anthropology and human behaviour Human Evolution and Male Aggression , The Oxford

Evolutionary Theory and Processes: Modern Perspectives Solomon P. Wasser, 2012-12-06 This volume consists of papers written by evolutionary molecular and organismal biologists geneticists ecologists behavioural ecologists morphologists mathematicians theoreticians and experimentalists in honour of Professor Eviatar Eibi Nevo on the occasion of his seventieth birthday The contributors are only a small subset of Eibi s many friends collaborators and students not that one can distinguish these categories among Eibi s colleagues His widespread influence and activity both in Israel and more generally as a leading evolutionary biologist is indicated by his many co authors on books and papers and by his many students integrated in teaching and research This volume presents some of the most recent dramatic results of molecular genomic and organismal evolutionary processes. It represents analyses, experiments, observations, reviews, discussions, and forecasts of evolutionary theory comprising both novel methods and results reanalyzed and reviewed data sets based on comparative experimental and theoretical studies utilizing model organisms across phylogeny including bacteria, fungi, plants, animals, and humans. It elucidates the revolution in molecular biology that ushered in our understanding of the evolutionary process over time and space. The topics discussed include major problems of evolutionary theory concerning origins, phylogeny, relative importance of evolutionary forces, structure and function, adaptation, and speciation in space and time in changing and stressful environments. A major emerging generalization is the nonrandomness of genome structure, highlighting the importance of natural selection as a major organizing evolutionary force, not only at the phenotypic level but most importantly at the interlinked genotypic/molecular level. The integration between the molecular and organismal levels unifies life, which is subjected to the mechanism of natural selection as a major orienting evolutionary force.

Evolutionary Theory and Processes: Modern Horizons Solomon P. Wasser, 2013-03-09

Evolution is the most profound of human ideas, integrating all natural phenomena—cosmic, biological, and cultural—into a continuous, universal change. This volume deals with evolutionary observations, experiments, and theories contributing to a deeper understanding of the evolutionary process, honoring the 75th birthday of Eviatar Eibi Nevo. I first met Eibi in 1966 when he was a Fellow in the Museum of Comparative Zoology at Harvard University and working mostly on cricket frog vocalization and speciation in the United States. His unique discovery of pipid fossil frogs in the Israeli Early Cretaceous central Negev is possibly the largest world collection of ancient fossil frogs. Our acquaintance developed into mutual friendship and admiration. Since then, our long-lasting friendship has included a visit to Israel, enabling me to follow Eibi's major scientific achievements, in particular his founding of the Institute of Evolution in the University of Haifa and now the pending establishment of the International Graduate School of Evolution. The research program of Eibi Nevo, in collaboration with numerous colleagues and students in Israel and across the world, encompasses diverse perspectives of evolutionary biology and biodiversity of genes, populations, species, and ecosystems, integrating modern and classical evolutionary approaches, molecular and organismal. They deal with model organisms in all forms, from bacteria through plants, fungi, animals, and humans, conducted over local, regional, and global scales.

Evolutionary Psychology and Information

Systems Research Ned Kock, 2010-07-28. This book is a compilation of chapters written by leading researchers from all over the world. Those researchers' common characteristic is that they have investigated issues at the intersection of the fields of information systems (IS) and evolutionary psychology (EP). The main goal of this book is to serve as a reference for IS research building on EP concepts and theories, in short, IS/EP research. The book is organized in three main parts: Part I focuses on EP concepts and theories that can be used as a basis for IS/EP research; Part II provides several exemplars of IS/EP research in practice; and Part III summarizes emerging issues and debate that can inform IS/EP research, including debate regarding philosophical foundations and credibility of related findings IS EP research is generally concerned with the use of concepts and theories from EP in the study of IS particularly regarding the impact of modern information and communication technologies on the behavior of individuals groups and organizations From a practitioners perspective the most immediate consumers of IS EP research are those who develop and use IS of which a large contingent are in businesses that employ IS to support marketing order taking production and delivery of goods and services In this context IS EP findings may be particularly useful due to the present need to design web based interfaces that will be used by individuals from different cultures and often different countries and whose common denominator is their human nature

Is Peace Inevitable? Santiago Genovés, 1972

The Goodness Paradox Richard W. Wrangham, 2019

Highly accessible authoritative and intellectually provocative a startlingly original theory of how Homo sapiens came to be Richard Wrangham forcefully argues that a quarter of a million years ago rising intelligence among our ancestors led to a unique new ability with unexpected consequences our ancestors invented socially sanctioned capital punishment facilitating domestication increased cooperation the accumulation of culture and ultimately the rise of civilization itself Throughout history even as quotidian life has exhibited calm and tolerance war has never been far away and even within societies

violence can be a threat The Goodness Paradox gives a new and powerful argument for how and why this uncanny combination of peacefulness and violence crystallized after our ancestors acquired language in Africa a quarter of a million years ago Words allowed the sharing of intentions that enabled men effectively to coordinate their actions Verbal conspiracies paved the way for planned conflicts and most importantly for the uniquely human act of capital punishment The victims of capital punishment tended to be aggressive men and as their genes waned our ancestors became tamer This ancient form of systemic violence was critical not only encouraging cooperation in peace and war and in culture but also for making us who we are Homo sapiens
