

INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT BREAD

THE COLOR OF THE TWIST TIE ON BREAD PACKAGING MEANS SOMETHING

The color of the twist tie or tabs on bread packaging indicates what day of the week the bread was baked on. This practice of having different color twist ties or tabs for different days of the week is not meant necessarily to be used by the customer, but actually is to aid the person stocking the shelves with bread in determining what bread is old and needs removed from the shelves. This way they don't actually have to look closely at the tabs (which usually also show a sell by date), they can simply just look for ones of a specific color and remove those.

PRE-SLICED BREAD WAS ONCE BANNED IN THE UNITED STATES

In 1943, Claude R. Wickard, the head of the War Foods Administration as well as the Secretary of Agriculture, got the bright idea to ban pre-sliced bread in America, which he did on January 18, 1943. The specific reasons behind this aren't entirely clear, though it was about conservation of resources. One known reason for the banning was to conserve wax paper. There have also been many who have suggested there were secondary goals of conserving wheat and steel. As you might imagine, banning pre-sliced bread didn't go over very well with the masses. Thus, within about three months of the ban being introduced, it was rescinded on March 8, 1943.

ALL YEAST LEAVENED BREAD WAS ONCE SOURDOUGH

Before the 19th century, all yeast leavened bread was a type of sourdough bread as they didn't understand that it wasn't the yeast itself giving the bread the sour taste. With advancements in microscopes, though, they discovered this fact and were able to produce strains of yeast packaged and sold without lactobacillus, which is what gives sourdough bread the sour taste.

MEDIAEVAL BREAD NAMES

In medieval times in Western Europe, breads were typically named after the class of people who typically consumed a given type of bread. There were knights' loafs, squares loafs, varlet's loafs, courts loafs, pope's loafs, common loafs, table loafs, etc.

THE CLASSIC WONDER BREAD LOGO

The Wonder Bread logo of colored balloons was inspired by an International Balloon Race at the Indianapolis Speedway. It was created by Elmer Cline, the Vice President for merchandizing for Taggart Baking Company who manufactured Wonder Bread at the time. The Continental Baking bought them out. The final version of the logo itself was designed by Drew Miller, who was a commercial artist working for a Chicago based ad agency hired to design the logo.

BONUS FACTOID:

The inner part of the bread encased by the crust is called the crumb, hence the way all bits of the part of the bread are called crumbs.
