Conflict and Change in Australia's Peri-Urban Landscapes Melissa Kennedy, Andrew Butt, Marco Amati, 2016-03-22. In an era of rapid urbanization, peri-urban areas are emerging as the fastest growing regions in many countries. Generally considered as the space extending one hundred kilometres from the city fringe, peri-urban areas are contested and subject to a wide range of uses such as residential development, productive farming, water catchments, forestry, mineral and stone extraction, and tourism and recreation. Whilst the peri-urban space is valued for offering a unique ambiance and lifestyle, it is often highly vulnerable to bushfire and loss of biodiversity and vegetation, along with threats to farming and food security in highly productive areas. Drawing together leading researchers and practitioners, this volume provides an interdisciplinary contribution to our knowledge and understanding of how peri-urban areas are being shaped in Australia through a focus on four overarching themes: Peri-urban Conceptualizations, Governance and Planning, Land Use and Food Production and Solutions, and Representations. Whilst the case studies focus on Australia, they advance a variety of tools useful in discerning processes and impacts of peri-urban change globally. Furthermore, the findings are instructive of the issues and tensions commonly encountered in rapidly urbanizing peri-urban areas throughout the world, from landscape valuation and biosecurity concerns to functional adaptation and social change.

Coastal Reservoir Technology and Applications Shu-Qing Yang, 2022-02-18. Coastal Reservoir Technology and Applications presents the analyses showing that the world is not running out of water, but water is running out of river mouths; we need to work to harness this resource. Compared with inland water storages and desalination technology, coastal reservoirs are a nature-based water solution without disturbing the environment. This book mainly answers the questions of what coastal reservoir technology is, where we should construct coastal reservoirs, and how to supply sufficient, high-quality and affordable water to the world with minimum environmental and social impacts. Chapter 1 reviews modes of water resources development in the history, along with current problems and reasons. Chapter 2 discusses the definition of coastal reservoirs, its classifications and applications, and the SPP downstream water management strategy. Other chapters analyse water crisis in every continent, as well as their water solutions. The possible coastal reservoir for each major river is suggested, as well. Without freshwater, no one can survive. Likewise, without sufficient, high-quality and affordable freshwater, no community can achieve sustainable development. However, water is also a killer when it is too much, floods, too dirty, pollution, and too turbid. Different from other books, this resource shows how to solve these water problems. Coastal reservoirs and SPP strategy are suggested to develop floodwater in a safe way in coastal and inland regions, respectively. Solution of water, food, energy, ecosystem nexus needs a paradigm shift from upstream to downstream water management i e from mountainous dams to coastal reservoirs which conserves the precious clean freshwater in seawater environment Provides an analysis of every large river in the world to help users determine the feasibility of using a coastal reservoir in each location Presents a global coverage including case studies where this technology has already been implemented Authored by a world expert on coastal reservoirs with several patents in the area

OECD Rural Studies Linking Indigenous Communities with Regional Development in Australia OECD,2020-12-14

Indigenous Australians play an important role in the development of regional economies Compared to the non Indigenous population Indigenous peoples are more likely to be located in predominantly rural regions However significant gaps in socio economic outcomes with non Indigenous Australians remain and these gaps are larger in rural regions The report provides three key recommendations to improve economic outcomes for Indigenous Australians

Politics, Planning and Housing Supply in Australia, England and Hong Kong Nicole Gurrán,Nick Gallent,Rebecca Chiu,2016-07-15

In recent years many nations have asked why not enough housing is being built or when it is built why it isn't of the highest quality or in the best most sustainable locations Politics Planning and Housing Supply in Australia England and Hong Kong examines the politics and planning of new homes in three very different settings but with shared political traditions in Australia in England and in Hong Kong It investigates the power relationships and politics that underpin the allocation of land for large scale residential schemes and the processes and politics that lead to particular development outcomes Using a comparative framework it asks how different systems of urban governance and planning mediate the supply of land for housing whether and how these system differences influence the location quantity and price of residential land and the implications for housing outcomes what can be learned from these different systems for allocating land building consensus between different stakeholders and delivering a steady supply of high quality and well located homes accessible to and appropriate for diverse housing needs This book frames each case study in a comprehensive examination of national and territorial frameworks before dissecting key local cases These local cases urban renewal and greenfield growth centres in Australia new towns and strategic sites in England and major development schemes in Hong Kong explore how broader urban planning and housing policy goals play out at the local level While the book highlights a number of potential strategies for improving planning and housing delivery processes the real challenge is to give voice to a broader array of interests reconstituting the political process surrounding planning and housing development to prioritise homes in well planned places for the many rather than simply facilitating investment opportunities for the few

A Short History of Australia Ernest Scott,1930

This Short History of Australia begins with a blank space on the map and ends with the record of a new name on the map that of Anzac It endeavours to elucidate the way in which the country was discovered why and how it was settled the development of civilized society within it its political and social progress mode of government and relations historical and actual with the Empire of which it forms a part The aim of the author has been to make the book answer such questions as might reasonably be put to it by an intelligent reader who will of course have regard to the limitations imposed by its size and also to present a picture of the phases through which the country has passed At the same time it is hoped that due importance has been given to personality History is a record of the doings of men living in communities not of blind nerveless forces
