Advising Ministers:

Advising Ministers Brian C Smith, 2023-07-22 First published in 1969 Advising Ministers is a general account of the arrangements for advising Ministers based on a case study enabling the reader to judge the effectiveness of an advisory body in a particular case which itself gained much publicity and in which hopes were high that results would be achieved Mr Smith's conclusions are based on published material and informed shrewd deduction to provide a valuable addition to the all too meagre case study material on British administration This book will be of interest to students of history sociology economics and political science

Ministerial Advisors Role, Influence and Management OECD, 2011-11-24 This book reports on the results of an OECD survey on the work of ministerial advisors across 27 countries It considers why they are used how they are appointed concerns that have been raised about them and the transparency of their status

Special Advisors in the Thick of it Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Public Administration Select Committee, Bernard Jenkin, 2012-10-14 The Public Administration Select Committee says special advisers SpAds should be men and women of standing and experience with a legitimate and valuable function to play in government but they need better training and support to prevent future problems and misunderstandings about their role and conduct Ministers must recognise that they have responsibility not just accountability for the conduct of their special advisers and actively ensure that they are fully aware of what their advisers are doing in their name The Committee says that it remains concerned that this responsibility has proved to be more theoretical than actual and says it cannot recall any minister ever resigning over the conduct of a special adviser despite some astonishing cases PASC says that the special advisers role protects the impartiality of the Civil Service by performing tasks which it would be inappropriate for permanent impartial officials to perform and helping to ensure that the Government's policy objectives are delivered but that ministers must be able to justify that the tasks they undertake are in the public interest Despite concerns raised by PASC's predecessor Committee more than ten years ago the training and support for new special advisers remains inadequate The Committee makes a number of recommendations including that the PM's Adviser on Ministers' Interests should be empowered to instigate his own investigations of potential breaches of the Ministerial Code so that the Prime Minister is not able to protect his ministers from appropriate investigation of the conduct of their advisers and that the PM's Adviser should himself be independently appointed and subject to a pre-appointment hearing
