'Racing cracks': Memory and Time in "Midnight's Children" of Salman Rushdie Nora Scholtes,2009-06-12 Seminar paper from the year 2008 in the subject Didactics for the subject English Literature Works grade 1 University of Kent language English abstract The inexorable ticktock as soon as Saleem's narration starts the countdown is set off and will not come to an end until the final full stop of Midnight's Children MC 82 Throughout the story Saleem being a child of ticktock is remorselessly rushed on MC 533 Towards what one might ask His childhood memory of a fisherman's pointing finger on a picture hanging on his bedroom wall haunts Saleem throughout his narration as a reminder of his inescapable destiny MC 167 More precisely the fisherman is pointing towards a letter sent by India's first Prime Minister on the occasion of Saleem's birth which coincided with the birth of India as an independent nation With this letter Nehru proclaims that Saleem's life will be the mirror of the life of all Indians MC 167 From his birth Saleem thus carries the burden of being a reflection of his country and its people With this enormous responsibility imposed on him he is pushed on through his narrative Literally Saleem is racing against increasingly destructive cracks that threaten to destroy his body On a metaphorical level he is fighting against a force beyond his power a force that ultimately is going to win time Saleem's narrative is drenched with a sense of fatalism of it being too late The race is already lost but at least he must resist his defeat as long as he can that is until he has brought his narrative to an end And all the way through we hear the threatening tick tock always aware that the final point zero is approaching fast and could surprise us along with Saleem at any moment Interestingly however where conventional story tellers build their narratives up towards one big countdown one decisive climax Saleem provides us with numerous countdowns The first one leading up to Saleem's birth coinciding with India's independence and partition followed by a countdown leading up to Saleem's amnesia The birth of his son and his final annihilation constitute the two last countdowns However these countdowns do not grant his narrative any disclosure or release but they seem to be endlessly renewed Once a countdown is up a new one begins each promising a final purpose and meaning but each time leaving us unsatisfied
