Animating the Dead Jane Downes,Colin Richards,2025-12-31 Provides the exciting results of a long term project examining Bronze Age round barrow construction and burial practices in Orkney Scotland This book provides the exciting results of a long term project examining Bronze Age round barrow construction and burial practices in Orkney Scotland A main focus of this research is on the act of cremation a technology of bodily metamorphosis as articulated through complex mortuary practices which produced a distinctive form of funerary architecture This and other topical themes are explored through the results of extensive excavations at several barrow cemeteries including Linga Fiold Gitterpitten Varne Dale Vestrafiold and the Knowes of Trotty the latter being famous for rich grave goods including gold discs and amber beads In this context in being built on the ruins of an early Neolithic settlement Knowes of Trotty provides an intersection of relational fields fusing local tradition with faraway places At Linga Fiold the barrow cemetery was almost entirely excavated and by employing sophisticated recovery techniques and analyses unique evidence is presented for a complex sequence of barrow building and mortuary practices This enables the reconstruction of an extraordinary ritual journey of the deceased from cremation pyre to final interment Additionally several cist excavations are published here for the first time This evidence allows an appraisal of the developing cist burial tradition in Orkney through the Chalcolithic and Bronze Age from the insertion of remains into chambered tombs and large re enterable unobtrusive cists to the development of imposing linear barrow cemeteries to the drawing in of the dead closer to home Overall the new findings presented here allow a reconsideration of the chronology and specifics of changing Orcadian burial technologies and traditions clearly such results have significance beyond Orkney for understanding the complexities of Bronze Age cremation and burial practices across Britain and north west Europe
