Archeology In The Making:

Archaeology in the Making William L. Rathje, Michael Shanks, Christopher Witmore, 2013 Archaeology in the Making is a collection of bold statements about archaeology its history how it works and why it is more important than ever This book comprises conversations about archaeology among some of its notable contemporary figures They delve deeply into the questions that have come to fascinate archaeologists over the last forty years or so those that concern major events in human history such as the origins of agriculture and the state and questions about the way archaeologists go about their work Many of the conversations highlight quite intensely held personal insight into what motivates us to pursue archaeology some may even be termed outrageous in the light they shed on the way archaeological institutions operate excavation teams professional associations university departments Archaeology in the Making is a unique document detailing the history of archaeology in second half of the 20th century to the present day through the words of some of its key proponents It will be invaluable for anybody who wants to understand the theory and practice of this ever developing discipline

Images in the making Ing-Marie Back Danielsson, Andrew Meirion Jones, 2020-08-25 This book offers an analysis of archaeological imagery based on new materialist approaches Reassessing the representational paradigm of archaeological image analysis it argues for the importance of ontology redefining images as material processes or events that draw together differing aspects of the world The book is divided into three sections Emergent images which focuses on practices of making Images as process which examines the making and role of images in prehistoric societies and Unfolding images which focuses on how images change as they are made and circulated Featuring contributions from archaeologists Egyptologists anthropologists and artists it highlights the multiple role of images in prehistoric and historic societies while demonstrating that scholars need to recognise their dynamic and changeable character

Ruins and Rivals James E. Snead, 2004-02-01 Published in cooperation with the William P Clements Center for Southwest Studies Southern Methodist University Ruins are as central to the image of the American Southwest as are its mountains and deserts and antiquity is a key element of modern southwestern heritage Yet prior to the mid nineteenth century this rich legacy was largely unknown to the outside world While military expeditions first brought word of enigmatic relics to the eastern United States the new intellectual frontier was seized by archaeologists who used the results of their southwestern explorations to build a foundation for the scientific study of the American past In Ruins and Rivals James Snead helps us understand the historical development of archaeology in the Southwest from the 1890s to the 1920s and its relationship with the popular conception of the region He examines two major research traditions expeditions dispatched from the major eastern museums and those supported by archaeological societies based in the Southwest itself By comparing the projects of New York s American Museum of Natural History with those of the Southwest Museum in Los Angeles and the Santa Fe based School of American Archaeology he illustrates the way that competition for status and prestige shaped the way that archaeological remains were explored and interpreted The decades long competition between institutions and their advocates ultimately created an agenda for Southwest archaeology that has survived into modern times Snead takes us back to the days when the field was populated by relic hunters and eastern museum men who formed uneasy alliances among themselves and with western boosters who used archaeology to advance their own causes Richard Wetherill Frederic Ward Putnam Charles Lummis and other colorful characters all promoted their own archaeological endeavors before an audience that included wealthy patrons museum administrators and other cultural figures The resulting competition between scholarly and public interests shifted among museum halls legislative chambers and the drawing rooms of Victorian America but always returned to the enigmatic ruins of Chaco Canyon Bandelier and Mesa Verde Ruins and Rivals contains a wealth of anecdotal material that conveys the flavor of digs and discoveries scholars and scoundrels tracing the origins of everything from national monuments to Santa Fe Style It rekindles the excitement of discovery illustrating the role that archaeology played in creating the southwestern past and how that image of antiquity continues to exert its influence today

Unearthing the Past Leonard Barkan,1999-01-01 The rediscovery of some of the most famous artworks of all time statues lying underground beneath Rome launched a thrilling archaeological adventure in the 15th century In this remarkable book Barkan probes the impact of these magnificent finds on Renaissance consciousness 206 illustrations

Critical Archaeology in the Digital Age Kevin Garstki,2022-02-01 Every part of archaeological practice is intimately tied to digital technologies but how deeply do we really understand the ways these technologies impact the theoretical trends in archaeology how these trends affect the adoption of these technologies or how the use of technology alters our interactions with the human past This volume suggests a critical approach to archaeology in a digital world a purposeful and systematic application of digital tools in archaeology This is a call to pay attention to your digital tools to be explicit about how you are using them and to understand how they work and impact your own practice The chapters in this volume demonstrate how this critical reflexive approach to archaeology in the digital age can be accomplished touching on topics that include 3D data predictive and procedural modelling digital publishing digital archiving

public and community engagement ethics and global sustainability The scale and scope of this research demonstrates how necessary it is for all archaeological practitioners to approach this digital age with a critical perspective and to be purposeful in our use of digital technologies

Making Archaeology Happen Martin Oswald Hugh Carver, 2016-06-16 Archaeology is for people is the theme of this book Split between the academic and commercial sectors archaeological investigation is also deeply embedded in the needs of local communities making it simultaneously an art science and social science Such a multi disciplinary discipline needs special methods and creative freedom not repetitive responses Carver argues that commercial procedures and academic theory are both suffocating creativity in fieldwork He d like to see us bring much more diversity and technical ingenuity to every opportunity and maintains this is more a matter of getting ourselves free of dogma than needing more time and money This has many implications for the way archaeology is designed and procured moving archaeologists up the professional ladder from builder to architect with contracts based on quality of design not the price
