International Financial Governance under Stress Geoffrey R. D. Underhill, Xiaoke Zhang, 2003-04-03 Persistent episodes of global financial crises have placed the existing system of international monetary and financial governance under stress The resulting economic turmoil provides a focal point for rethinking the norms and institutions of global financial architecture and the policy options of public and private authorities at national regional and transnational levels This volume moves beyond analysis of the causes and consequences of recent financial crises and concentrates on issues of policy Written by distinguished scholars it focuses on the tension between global market structures and national policy imperatives Accessible to both specialists and general readers the analysis is coherent across a broad range of theoretical and empirical cases Offering a series of reasoned policy responses to financial integration and crises the volume grapples directly with the institutional and often neglected normative dimensions of international financial architecture The volume thus constitutes required reading for scholars and policy makers

US Hegemony Reinhard Hildebrandt, 2009 With the end of the East West conflict in 1990 an entirely new constellation seemed to emerge for the first time in the history of mankind This was perceived by the power elite in the USA as a useful challenge to lend its until then territorially restricted hegemony a global dimension From the perspective of the US elites Francis Fukuyama a period of indefinite American control over the rest of the world in which there would be no more scope for potential rivals to emerge would characterize the end of history But some years later the USA had to accept that the dual hegemony it had built up together with the Soviet Union was fundamental to the continued existence of American hegemony Its inability to sustain a global hegemony revealed itself in the severe setbacks it suffered in the three wars waged in Iraq Afghanistan and against the so called international terrorists Undeterred by the USA's imminent isolation influential US experts insisted that US policies were still in line with the US

general perception of its role in the world firstly to work for the good of the world and secondly to exercise its military might even when the rest of the world opposed it Ignored for a long time by these very experts were the emergence of the interregional Asian triangle China India Russia Europe s reorientation and in consequence the USA s relegation as a hegemonic power

Humanitarian Architecture Esther Charlesworth,2014-06-27 Never has the demand been so urgent for architects to respond to the design and planning challenges of rebuilding post disaster sites and cities In 2011 more people were displaced by natural disasters 42 million than by wars and armed conflicts And yet the number of architects equipped to deal with rebuilding the aftermath of these floods fires earthquake typhoons and tsunamis is chronically short This book documents and analyses the expanding role for architects in designing projects for communities after the event of a natural disaster The fifteen case studies featured in the body of the book illustrate how architects can use spatial sensibility and integrated problem solving skills to help alleviate both human and natural disasters The cases include Lizzie Babister Department of International Development UK Shigeru Ban Winner of The Pritzker Architecture Prize 2014 Shigeru Ban Architects and Voluntary Architects Network Japan Eric Cesal Disaster Reconstruction and Resiliency Studio and Architecture for Humanity Japan Hsieh Ying Chun Atelier 3 Taiwan Nathaniel Corum Education Outreach and Architecture for Humanity USA Sandra D Urzo Shelter and Settlements and International Federation of the Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies Switzerland Brett Moore World Vision International Australia Michael Murphy MASS Design Group USA David Perkes Gulf Coast Community Design Studio USA Paul Pholeros Healthabitat Australia Patama Roonrakwit Community Architects for Shelter and Environment Thailand Graham Saunders International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies Switzerland Kirtee Shah Ahmedabad Study Action Group India Maggie Stephenson UN HABITAT Haiti Anna Wachtmeister Catholic Organisation for Relief and Redevelopment Aid the Netherlands The interviews and supporting essays show built environment professionals collaborating with post disaster communities as facilitators collaborators and negotiators of land space and shelter rather than as save the world modernists as often portrayed in the design media The goal is social and physical reconstruction as a collaborative process involving a damaged community and its local culture environment and economy not just shelter projects that build houses but leave no economic footprint or longer term community infrastructure What defines and unites the architects interviewed for Humanitarian Architecture is their collective belief that through a consultative process of spatial problem solving the design profession can contribute in a significant way to the complex post disaster challenge of rebuilding a city and its community
