Childhood Remembered:

Children Remembered Robert Woods, 2006-09-01 Children Remembered discusses the relationship between parents and children in the past. It focuses on the ways in which adults responded to the untimely deaths of children, whether and how they expressed their grief. The study engages with the hypothesis of parental indifference associated with the French cultural historian Philippe Ariès by analysing the changing risk of mortality since the sixteenth century and assessing its consequences. It uses paintings and poems to describe feelings and emotions in ways that are not only highly original but also challenge traditional disciplinary conventions. The circumstances of infant and child mortality are considered for France and England, while example portraits and poems are selected from England and America. While the work is firmly grounded in demography, it is especially concerned with current debates in social and cultural history with the history of childhood, the way pictorial images can be read, and the use as historical evidence to which literature may be put. This is a wide-ranging and ambitious multi-disciplinary study that will add significantly to our understanding of demographic structures, the ways in which they have conditioned attitudes and behaviour in the past.

Kinney Anne Behnke Kinney, 1995-01-01 Chinese in the twentieth century intent on modernizing their country, condemned their inherited culture in part on the grounds that it was oppressive to the young. The authors of this pioneering volume provide us with the evidence to re-examine those charges. Drawing on sources ranging from art to medical treatises, fiction, and funerary writings, they separate out the many complexities in the Chinese cultural construction of childhood and the ways it has changed over time, listening to how Chinese talked about children, whether their own child, the abstract child in need of education or medical care, the ideal precocious child, or the fictional child. Let us assess in concrete terms the structures and values that underlay Chinese life.

Patricia Buckley Ebrey, University of Illinois Childhoods Gaile Sloan Cannella, Lourdes Diaz Soto, 2010 For the past 20 years, a range of scholars, educators, and cultural workers have examined dominant discourses of childhood using critical feminist and other postmodern perspectives. Located in a variety of disciplines, these poststructural, deconstructive, and even postcolonial critiques have challenged everything from notions of the universal child to adult-child dualisms to deterministic developmental theory. The purpose of this volume is to acknowledge the profound contributions of that large body of literature while demonstrating the ways that critical analyses can be used to generate avenues of action that increase possibilities for social justice for those who are younger while, at the same time, avoiding determinism. In this time of globalization, hypercapitalism, and discourses that would control and disqualify through constructions like accountability, we believe that projects such as this are of utmost importance. The volume is divided into four major sections to reflect the multiplicity of human voices and perspectives: section I, contemporary circumstances and dominant discourses within which we all attempt to function; sections II and III, and the generation of new possibilities for constructing relationships together; section IV. Finally, a voice from the heart within a reconceptualist social science agenda for early childhood studies is presented Childhood on the Farm Pamela Riney-Kehrberg, 2005 Those personal accounts resurrect the essential experience of children's work play education family relations and coming of age from their own perspectives Steering a middle path between the myth of wholesome farm life and the reality of work that was often extremely dangerous Riney Kehrberg shows both the best and the worst that a rural upbringing had to offer midwestern youth a time before mechanization forever changed the rural scene and radio broke the spell of isolation Down on the farm truancy was not uncommon and chores were shared across genders Yet farm children managed to indulge in inventive play much of it homemade to supplement store bought toys and to get through the long spells between circuses

Developments Erica Burman, 2020-07-28 How does developmental psychology connect with what used to be called the developing world What do cultural representations indicate about the contemporary politics of childhood How is concern about child sexual exploitation linked to wider securitization anxieties In other words what is the political economy of childhood and how is this affectively organized This new edition of Developments Child Image Nation fully updated is a key conceptual intervention and resource reflecting further on the contexts and frameworks that tie children to national and international agendas A companion volume to Burman's Deconstructing Developmental Psychology third edition 2017 this volume helps explain why questions around children and childhood including their safety welfare their interests abilities sexualities and their violence have so preoccupied the late twentieth and twenty first centuries showing how the frames for these concerns have extended beyond their Euro US contexts of origination In this completely revised edition Burman explores changing debates and contexts offering resources for interpreting continuities and shifts in the complex terrain connecting children and development Through reflection on an increasingly globalised marketised world that prolongs previous colonial and gendered dynamics in new and even more insidious ways Developments analyses the conceptual paradigms shaping how we think about and work with children and recommends strategies for changing them Drawing in particular on feminist and post development literatures as well as original and detailed engagement with social theory it illustrates how and why reconceptualising notions of individual and human development including those informing models of children's rights and interests is needed to foster more just and equitable forms of professional practice with children and their families Burman offers an important contribution to a set of urgent debates engaging theory and method policy and practice across all the disciplines that work with or lay claim to children's interests A persuasive set of arguments about childhood culture and professional practice Developments is an invaluable resource to teachers and students in psychology childhood studies and education as well as researchers in gender studies

Children in Chinese Art Ann Barrott Wicks, 2002-02-28 Depictions of children have had a prominent place in Chinese art since the Song period 960 1279 Yet one would be hard pressed to find any significant discussion of children in art in the historical documents of imperial China or contemporary scholarship on Chinese art Children in Chinese Art brings to the forefront themes and motifs that have crossed social boundaries for centuries but have been overlooked in scholarly treatises In this volume experts in the fields of art religion literature and history introduce and elucidate many of the issues surrounding child imagery in China including its use for didactic reinforcement of social values as well as the amuletic function of these works The introduction provides a thought provoking overview of the history of depictions of children exploring both stylistic development and the emergence of specific themes In an insightful essay China specialists combine expertise in literature and painting to propose that the focus on children in both genres during the Song is an indication of a truly humane society Skillful use of visual and textual sources from the Ming 1368 1644 and Qing 1644 1911 period explains children s games and the meaning of depictions of boys at play Gender issues are examined in an intriguing look at mothers and children in woodblock illustrations to Ming versions of the classical text Lie ni juan Depictions of the childhood of saints and sages from murals and commemorative tablets in ancient temples are considered The volume concludes with two highly original essays on child protectors and destroyers in Chinese folk religion and family portraits and their scarcity in China before the nineteenth century Contributors Ellen B Avril Catherine Barnhart Richard Barnhart Terese Tse Bartholomew Julia K Murray Ann Waltner Ann Barrott Wicks Childhood Education ,1929 Includes music The Wiley Handbook on the Development of Children's Memory Patricia J.
