Sir Humphrey's Legacy Neil Record,Philip Booth,Nick Silver,2006 Estimates that public sector pension liabilities are about GBP1trillion but the government publishes estimates of the liabilities of only half this level The author states that if costs are made transparent we can start to change the nature of public sector schemes to the benefit of workers and taxpayers alike

Nature, Not Human Activity, Rules the Climate Siegfried Fred Singer,2008 This is the Policymakers Summary of the Nongovernmental International Panel on Climate Change NIPCC an international coalition of scientists convened to provide an independent examination of the evidence available on the causes and consequences of climate change in the published peer reviewed literature examined without bias and selectivity It includes many research papers ignored by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change IPCC plus additional scientific results that became available after the IPCC deadline of May 2006 The IPCC is pre programmed to produce reports to support the hypotheses of anthropogenic warming and the control of greenhouse gases as envisioned in the Global Climate Treaty The 1990 IPCC Summary completely ignored satellite data since they showed no warming The 1995 IPCC report was notorious for the significant alterations made to the text after it was approved by the scientists in order to convey the impression of a human influence The 2001 IPCC report claimed the twentieth century showed unusual warming based on the now discredited hockey stick graph The latest IPCC report published in 2007 completely devaluates the climate contributions from changes in solar activity which are likely to dominate any human influence

Why Carbon Fuels Will Dominate the 21st Century's Global Energy Economy Peter R. Odell,2004 This text provides a survey of the energy resources for the foreseeable future and argues that there is not nor has there been a supply crisis It contends that the current claims of impending disaster are as falsely based as those first made in the 1960s albeit for different reasons This book argues that most attempts at reasonable analysis are undermined by the poor quality and confusing nature of much of the statistical data available much of the confusion deliberately sowed by governments and oil companies to create impressions that best served them at different times Data is interpreted in a coherent way concluding that the predicted supply crisis is not going to be a near term phenomenon

Verdict on the Crash Philip Booth,2009-05 This title features contributions from James Alexander Michael Beenstock Philip Booth Eamonn Butler Tim Congdon Laurence Copeland Kevin Dowd John Greenwood Samuel Gregg John Kay David Llewellyn Alan Morrison D R Myddelton Anna Schwartz and Geoffrey Wood This book challenges the myth that the recent banking crisis was caused by insufficient statutory regulation of financial markets Though it finds that statutory regulation failed and that market participants took more risks than they should have done it appears that statutory regulation made matters worse rather than better Furthermore the fifteen experts who have contributed to this study find that government policy failed in other respects too As with the boom and bust that led to the Great Depression loose monetary policy on both sides of the Atlantic helped to promote an asset price bubble and credit boom which at some stage was bound to have serious consequences Rejecting the failed approach of discretionary detailed regulation of the financial system the authors instead propose specific and incisive regulatory tools that are designed to target in a non intrusive way particular weaknesses in a banking system that is backed by deposit insurance This study by some of the most eminent authors in the field is essential reading for all those who are interested in the policy implications of recent events in financial markets Unshackling
