Clinical Aphasiology Thomas E. Prescott,1991-12 Clinical aphasiology Conference on clinical aphasiology,1984

34th Clinical Aphasiology Conference Holland,2005 This special issue of Aphasiology represents the papers accepted for publication which were among those presented at the 34th Clinical Aphasiology Conference held in Park City Utah in 2004 They have been peer reviewed and selected by a distinguished group of ad hoc editorial consultants from among the considerably larger number of papers and posters presented at the meeting itself Clinical Aphasiology Martin John Ball,Jack Damico,2007 This book presents a collection of cutting edge work from leading researchers and clinicians around the world on a range of topics within Clinical Aphasiology However more than this the volume is also a tribute to Chris Code one of the foremost scholars in the field Professor Code has made a galvanizing impact on the field as a savant a motivator and an impresario of trends which have resulted in several significant developments in the field In the first chapter of this book the editors outline the considerable contributions Chris Code has made to the area The remaining contents have been divided into three main approaches to the study of aphasia reflecting Professor Code s own interests First are the contributions that fall under the heading of Conceptual Considerations These are mainly interdisciplinary in nature spanning linguistics phonetics psychology and neurology as well as social aspects of communication disorders The second section of the book deals with Research Considerations with chapters ranging from how the study of disrupted communication can inform models of normal language processing through tone production and processing in speakers with aphasia to anomia and progressive multifocal leukoencephalopathy Each of these chapters explores different aspects of research methodology including quantitative and qualitative research The final section of the collection deals with Clinical Considerations the chapters here cover counselling computerized training cultural and linguistic diversity in aphasia right hemisphere disorders and communication problems in the dementias Clinical Aphasiology will be an invaluable tool for both students and practitioners in speech and language pathology psychology neurology and related fields Forums in Clinical Aphasiology David J. Muller,Chris Code,2008-04-30 This work brings together a selection of Clinical Forum features from the journal Aphasiology The fora are designed to cover issues in clinical aphasiology which are central topical and controversial Each forum concerns a main article and a number of commentaries Aphasiology Patrick Doyle,2002-05-02 The First Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference CAC was convened in Albuquerque in 1971 It was attended by a small group of primarily practicing clinicians dedicated to meeting the human service needs of their clients while recognizing the importance of contributing to the collective knowledge base of their discipline by providing empirical evidence supporting the links between their clinical interventions and outcomes Thirteen years later Barlow Hays and Nelson 1984 would describe in their now seminal publication The Scientist Practitioner an integrated model of applied behavioral research its strategies and methods and the role of the practitioner in the acquisition of knowledge directed toward improving clinical procedures and outcomes By this time 13 Volumes of CAC publications had already been published and comprised the single largest source of applied clinical data addressing the nature of aphasia and its clinical management These documents represented the product of the scientist practitioner model in action prior to its formalization by Barlow et al and provide a rich source of evidence supporting the efficacy of aphasia rehabilitation Unfortunately these and subsequent CAC publications remain unavailable to the larger clinical and scientific community due to their limited distribution Much has changed in the ensuing years Indeed many of the healthcare delivery systems in which aphasia rehabilitation is now practiced in 2002 severely restrict the frequency and duration of clinical services Increasingly practitioners are required to be more accountable for their clinical outcomes and to measure behavioral change in units that represent meaningful differences to consumers Now more than ever it is critical that the scientist practitioner model be promoted in order to better serve individuals with aphasia and to further advance the collective knowledge and evidence base of the discipline Now more than ever the available evidence needs to be disseminated as broadly as possible These goals are in keeping with the mission of CAC as envisioned by its founding members and remain the focused commitment of its many participants steering committee and publication board In keeping with these goals the papers that appear in this special edition of Aphasiology were selected based upon their theoretical importance clinical relevance and scientific merit from among the many platform and poster presentations comprising the 31st Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference held in Santa Fe New Mexico in 2001 Each paper was peer reviewed by the Editorial Consultants and Associate Editors acknowledged herein consistent with the standards of Aphasiology and the rigours of merit review that represent this indexed archival journal that is accessible to clinicians and scientists all over the world Clinical Aphasiology Margaret L. Lemme,1994 30th Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference Kevin Kearns,2002-02-01 The papers that appear in this volume were drawn from presentations at the 30th Annual Clinical Aphasiology Conference in Waikoloa Beach Hawaii USA in May 2000 Acceptance of a paper from the CAC conference indicates that the paper has met the standards of Aphasiology and the rigours of merit review that represent the journal Clinical Aphasiology ,1975 Clinical aphasiology Conference on clinical aphasiology,1985 37th Clinical Aphasiology Conference Beth Armstrong,2008-11 This issue is made up of research findings presented at the 37th Clinical Aphasiology Conference in Scottsdale Arizona in May 2007 In keeping with the mission of CAC to foster new and innovative methods of assessment and treatment and to stimulate scholarly discussion the papers span the spectrum of approaches to aphasia and related neurogenic communication disorders and present the very latest thinking in the field Since its inception CAC has promoted the development of research in clinical aspects of aphasiology with the focus being on improving the communication between those with aphasia and their significant others The papers in this issue continue this focus with authors integrating theoretical and practical issues in order to forge ahead in this endeavour From analysis and treatment of specific linguistic behaviours to interviews with people with aphasia and their families to careful description of treatments involving everyday conversations the papers demonstrate the range of approaches now possible in the treatment of aphasia. Further developments and potential integration of these different perspectives promises an exciting future for aphasia therapy.
