Africa Wo/Man Palava Chikwenye Okonjo Ogunyemi, 1996-04-15 Ogunyemi uses the novels to trace a Nigerian women's literary tradition that reflects an ideology centered on children and community Of prime importance is the paradoxical Mammywata figure the independent childless mother who serves as a basis for the postcolonial woman in the novels and in society at large Ogunyemi tracks this figure through many permutations from matriarch to writer her multiple personalities reflecting competing loyalties This sustained critical study counters prevailing masculinist theories of black literature in a powerful narrative of the Nigerian world

African Women Writers and the Politics of Gender Sadia Zulfiqar, 2016-09-23 This work examines the work of a group of African women writers who have emerged over the last forty years While figures such as Chinua Achebe Ben Okri and Wole Soyinka are likely to be the chief focus of discussions of African writing female authors have been at the forefront of fictional interrogations of identity formation and history In the work of authors such as Mariama B Senegal Buchi Emecheta Nigeria Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie Nigeria Tsitsi Dangarembga Zimbabwe and Leila Aboulela Sudan there is a clear attempt to subvert the tradition of male writing where the female characters are often relegated to the margins of the culture and confined to the domestic private sphere This body of work has already generated a significant number of critical responses including readings that draw on gender politics and colonialism but it is still very much a minor literature and most mainstream western feminism has not sufficiently processed it The purpose of this book is three fold First it draws together some of the most important and influential African women writers of the post war period and looks at their work separately and together in terms of a series of themes and issues including marriage family polygamy religion childhood and education Second it demonstrates how African literature produced by women writers is explicitly and polemically engaged with urgent political issues that have both local and global resonance the veil Islamophobia and a distinctively African brand of feminist critique Third it revisits Fredric Jameson s claim that all third world texts are national allegories and considers these novels by African women in relation to Jameson s claim arguing that their work has complicated Jameson s assumptions depth look at Wormsloe plantation located on the salt marshes outside of Savannah Georgia explores that question while revealing the broad historical forces that have shaped the lowcountry South Wormsloe is one of the most historic and ecologically significant stretches of the Georgia coast It has remained in the hands of one family from 1736 when Georgia s Trustees granted it to Noble Jones through the 1970s when much of Wormsloe was ceded to Georgia for the creation of a state historic site It has served as a guard post against aggression from Spanish Florida a node in an emerging cotton economy connected to far flung places like Lancashire and India a retreat for pleasure and leisure and a carefully maintained historic site and green space Like many lowcountry places Wormsloe is inextricably tied to regional national and global environments and is the product of transatlantic exchanges Swanson argues that while visitors to Wormsloe value what they perceive to be an authentic undisturbed place this landscape is actually the product of aggressive management over generations He also finds that Wormsloe is an ideal place to get at hidden stories such as African American environmental and agricultural knowledge conceptions of health and disease the relationship between manual labor and views of nature and the ties between historic preservation and natural resource conservation Remaking Wormsloe Plantation connects this distinct Georgia place to the broader world adding depth and nuance to the understanding of our own conceptions of nature and history
