The Political Interests of Gender Revisited Anna G. Jónasdóttir, Kathleen B. Jones, 2009

In the two decades since the publication of our last anthology Jónasdóttir and Jones write in their introduction to this important new book two trends have characterised approaches to the concept of gender in political studies one strategically centring gender in social and political analysis and the other deconstructing gender Tensions between these trends led to an impasse in feminist theory generating a crisis in how to think about what we can do about gender identity or representation in the ethical political sense

Feminism, Animals, and Science Lynda I. A. Birke, 1994

What we think other animals are matters to how we see ourselves how similar are they or how different Do humans belong to culture and animals or women to nature For feminists that matters particularly for it has so often been animal names that have been used to derogate women This book explores these boundaries focusing particularly on feminist analyses of science science not only uses animals but also names and defines them Beginning with some ways in which animals are defined and with feminist concerns about non humans as fellow sufferers the book goes on to look at how ideas about animals are constructed in different areas of biological science and how these intersect with feminist critiques of modern science

Abortion and Nation Lisa Smyth, 2005

Abortion politics are contentious and divisive in many parts of the world but nowhere more so than in Ireland Abortion and Nation examines the connection between abortion politics and hegemonic struggles over national identity and the nation state in the Irish Republic Situating the abortion question in the global context of human rights politics as well as international social movements Lisa Smyth analyses the formation and transformation of abortion politics in Ireland from the early 1980s to the present day She considers whether or not the shifting connections between morality rights and nationhood promise a new era of gender equality in the context of nation state citizenship The book provides a new sociological framework through which the significance of conflict over abortion and reproductive freedom is connected to conflict over national identity It also offers a distinctive in depth consideration of the connection between gender and nationhood particularly in terms of its impact on women s status as citizens within the nation state within the European Union and as members of a global civil society
