Learning Unit 1

LO1 – Explain why teachers should know about language development

Teachers should know about language development because language is the foundation of learning. In the context of teaching Afrikaans as a subject, understanding how language develops helps teachers to:

1. Support learners at different stages of development: Language development is not uniform across all children. Knowing the typical stages helps Afrikaans teachers tailor their teaching strategies for learners who are still acquiring vocabulary, grammar, and comprehension skills, whether Afrikaans is their home language or an additional language.
2. Identify language difficulties early: Teachers who are aware of normal and delayed language development can spot challenges like poor vocabulary, difficulty forming sentences, or problems with pronunciation. Early identification allows for timely support and intervention.
3. Promote effective communication: Afrikaans teachers help learners express themselves clearly, both orally and in writing. Understanding language development allows them to scaffold instruction, build confidence, and create opportunities for meaningful interaction.
4. Enhance literacy teaching: Reading and writing in Afrikaans depend on solid language skills. Knowledge of language development allows teachers to systematically teach phonics, vocabulary, grammar, and sentence construction appropriate to learners' cognitive and linguistic levels.
5. Foster multilingualism: In South African classrooms, many learners speak Afrikaans as a second or third language. Understanding how additional languages are acquired helps teachers support bilingual or multilingual learners in a culturally responsive and linguistically appropriate way.

The Ambiguity of English as a Lingua Franca Stephanie Rudwick, 2021-08-29 Grounded in ethnography this monograph explores the ambiguity of English as a lingua franca by focusing on identity politics of language and race in contemporary South Africa. The book adopts a multidisciplinary approach which highlights how ways of speaking English constructs identities in a multilingual context. Focusing primarily on isiZulu and Afrikaans speakers it raises critical questions around power and ideology. The study draws from literature on English as a lingua franca, raciolinguistics and the cultural politics of English and dialogues between these fields. It challenges long held concepts underpinning existing research from the global North by highlighting how they do not transfer and apply to identity politics of language in South Africa. It sketches out how these struggles for belonging are reflected in marginalisation and empowerment and a vast range of local, global and glocal identity trajectories. Ultimately it offers a first lens through which global scholarship on English as a lingua franca can be decolonised in terms of disciplinary limitations, geopolitical orientations and a focus on the politics of race that characterize the use of English as a lingua franca all over the world. This book will be of interest to students and researchers in linguistic anthropology, sociolinguistics, World Englishes, ELF and African studies.

In the Belly of the University Christi van der Westhuizen, Qawekazi Maqabuka, Nomalanga Mkhize, Babalwa Magoqwana, Glenn Holtzman, 2025-12-22 Universities' historical legacies, power dynamics and institutional norms continue to define who belongs, who succeeds and whose knowledge is valued within higher education spaces. This edited volume explores the resultant embedded cultures shaping universities and their role in society. By examining the belly of the university, its inner workings, shadow structures and practices of normalisation, the volume illuminates how these cultures reproduce inequality and exclusion even amidst transformation agendas. It also considers how academics, students, managers and administrators navigate contest and reimagine these spaces in pursuit of justice, equity and deeper transformation. Combining insights from South Africa, Nigeria and the USA, the volume invites reflection on how universities can become socially nourishing institutions.
