Consuming Architecture Daniel Maudlin, Marcel Vellinga, 2014-03-05 Projecting forward in time from the processes of design and construction that are so often the focus of architectural discourse Consuming Architecture examines the variety of ways in which buildings are consumed after they have been produced focusing in particular on processes of occupation appropriation and interpretation Drawing on contributions by architects historians anthropologists literary critics artists film makers photographers and journalists it shows how the consumption of architecture is a dynamic and creative act that involves the creation and negotiation of meanings and values by different stakeholders and that can be expressed in different voices In so doing it challenges ideas of what constitutes architecture architectural discourse and architectural education how we understand and think about it and who can claim ownership of it Consuming Architecture is aimed at students in architectural education and will also be of interest to students and researchers from disciplines that deal with architecture in terms of consumption and material culture The Photographic Art Market ,2007 Building with Light Robert

Elwall, 2004 Ever since its invention photography has enjoyed a close and mutually stimulating relationship with architecture an association underlined by one description of photography as building with light So well established is this link that photography is now regarded as the easiest and most reliable means of making architecture and its ideas accessible to a wider public Our first sometimes our only impression of a building often comes from a photograph and the skilled photographer can help us to see even the most familiar structures with a fresh eye This book offers a lively exploration of the development of architectural photography and some of its key themes From the earliest examples of the genre in the nineteenth century to today s digital revolution Robert Elwall skilfully focuses on the changing aesthetic of the medium worldwide Included are such topics as the early influence of architectural drawing the growth of specialist photographic firms documenting the nineteenth century building boom the influence of photography on both architectural practice and history the invention of half tone reproduction the role of photography in the spread of Modernism the impact of colour photography during the 1970s and 1980s and the increasing use of computers to shape a new direction Authoritatively written by a world renowned expert and illustrated with arresting images from collections throughout the world this study is essential reading for anyone interested in architecture photography and the history of their special relationship Book jacket
