Conceptual Ecology and Invasion Biology: Reciprocal Approaches to Nature Marc W. Cadotte, Sean M. McMahon, Tadashi Fukami, 2006-07-19 The conservation threat represented by invasive species is well known but the scientific opportunities are underappreciated Invasion studies have historically been largely directed at the important job of collecting case studies Invasion biology has matured to the point of being able to incorporating itself into the heart of ecology and should be viewed as extensions or critical experiments of ecological theory In this edited volume global experts in ecology and evolutionary biology explore how theories in ecology elucidate the invasion processes while also examining how specific invasions informs ecological theory This reciprocal benefit is highlighted in a number of scales of organization population community and biogeographic while employing example invaders in all major groups of organisms and from a number of regions around the globe The chapters in this volume utilize many of the cutting edge observational experimental analytical and computational methods used in modern ecology Through merging conceptual ecology and invasion biology we can obtain a better understanding of the invasion process while also developing a better understanding of how ecological systems function

Cox, 2004-06-25 In Alien Species and Evolution biologist George W Cox reviews and synthesizes emerging information on the evolutionary changes that occur in plants animals and microbial organisms when they colonize new geographical areas and on the evolutionary responses of the native species with which alien species interact The book is broad in scope exploring information across a wide variety of taxonomic groups trophic levels and geographic areas It examines theoretical topics related to rapid evolutionary change and supports the emerging concept that species introduced to new physical and biotic environments are particularly prone to rapid evolution. The author draws on examples from all parts of the world and all major ecosystem types and the variety of examples used gives considerable insight into the patterns of evolution that are likely to result from the massive introduction of species to new geographic regions that is currently occurring around the globe. Alien Species and Evolution is the only state of the art review and synthesis available of this critically important topic and is an essential work for anyone concerned with the new science of invasion biology or the threats posed by invasive species. Alien Vs. solanaceous vegetable plants. Timothy Ado Shamaki, 2023-03-03. Doctoral Thesis Dissertation from the year 2022 in the subject Mathematics Applied Mathematics Modibbo Adama University of Technology Yola. Language: English. Abstract: This thesis treats the issue of Vector Borne Virus Diseases (VBVDs) that are transmitted in solanaceous vegetable plants by incorporating three species of vectors: aphids, thrips, and whiteflies. A mathematical model was developed that used lady beetles as biological control agents for controlling the spread of diseases in solanaceous vegetable plants through predation. The research adopted the linearization method. This research is restricted to a biological control of VBVDs of solanaceous vegetable plants using compartmental modeling approach. The model is a system of first order nonlinear ODEs. Additionally, the study is limited to three solanaceous plants: i.e. tomato, pepper, and eggplant. This is because solanaceous plants are among the world's most cultivated crops and given proper conditions and regular maintenance, they are relatively easy to grow. We focused on viral diseases that affect solanaceous vegetable plants, especially Yellow Leaf Curl Virus (YLCV), Spotted Wilt Virus (SWV), and Cucumber Mosaic Virus (CMV). It is a common knowledge that these plant viruses also require some sort of carrier known as vectors to transmit the pathogen from plant to plant. Therefore, the study is demarcated to a class of aphids, green peach aphids, thrips, T. tabasi, and whiteflies, Bemisia tabasi, because these ones are reported as the common problem associated with solanaceous plants which can be controlled by natural predatory enemies: ladybugs, Hippodamia convergens.
