Schools and Urban Revitalization Kelly L. Sunburnt Cities Justin B. Hollander, 2011-01-18 In recent years there has been a growing focus on urban and environmental studies and the skills and techniques needed to address the wider challenges of how to create sustainable communities Central to that demand is the increasing urgency of addressing the issue of urban decline and the response has almost always been to pursue growth policies to attempt to reverse that decline The track record of growth policies has been mixed at best Until the first decade of the twenty first century decline was assumed to be an issue only for former industrial cities the so called Rust Belt But the sudden reversal in growth in the major cities of the American Sunbelt has shown that urban decline can be a much wider issue Justin Hollander s research into urban decline in both the Sun and Rust Belts draws lessons planners and policy makers that can be applied universally Hollander addresses the reasons and statistics behind these shrinking cities with a positive outlook arguing that growth for growth s sake is not beneficial for communities suggesting instead that urban development could be achieved through shrinkage Case studies on Phoenix Flint Orlando and Fresno support the argument and Hollander delves into the numbers literature and individual lives affected and how they have changed in response to the declining regions Written for urban scholars and to suit a wide range of courses focused on contemporary urban studies this text forms a base for all study on shrinking cities for professionals academics and students in urban design planning public administration and sociology

Virtue Ethics for the Real World Howard J. Curzer, 2023-02-10 In Virtue Ethics for the Real World Improving Character without Idealization Howard J Curzer argues that character ideals seduce virtue ethicists into counterintuitive claims mislead and psychologically harm people seeking to improve their characters and sometimes become tools for exploitation Curzer offers a theory of Aristotelian virtue ethics that eschews idealization and that harmonizes with common sense To explain the many dilemmas of ordinary life he allows that different virtues sometimes enjoin incompatible actions and even enjoin actions that conflict with duty Curzer defends the doctrine of the mean arguing that idealized traits such as unilateral forgiveness universal civility unconditional commitments and unlimited generosity are not virtues He shows that the reciprocity of virtues doctrine depends upon idealization and rejects it When undergirding his theory Curzer wears several hats He is a eudaimonist when grounding virtue a constructivist when grounding value and a perspectivist a la Nietzsche when grounding virtuous action How can people improve without aiming at an ideal Curzer offers an individualized approach to character improvement modeled on contemporary medicine First diagnose each person s character flaws Then tailor treatment plans to each flaw An important tool is a fine grained table of the components of character their failure modes and corresponding therapies Curzer provides the beginnings of such a table
