Allan Wolf

Allan Wolf is an American author, poet, and performer known for his exciting and thoughtful books for young readers. He is especially famous for writing historical novels in verse—books that tell true stories using poetry instead of regular paragraphs. Through his work, Allan Wolf combines facts, imagination, and rhythm to make history come alive.

Before becoming a full-time writer, Wolf was the educational director for Poetry Alive!, a group that performs poems for students in schools across the United States. He believes that poetry should be fun, dramatic, and shared out loud. His performances often include costumes, voices, and music to help bring the poems to life.

One of Allan Wolf's most well-known books is The Watch That Ends the Night, which tells the story of the Titanic from many points of view, including passengers, crew members, and even the iceberg. Another popular book is New Found Land, which explores the famous journey of Lewis and Clark. By using verse, Wolf is able to show the thoughts and feelings of the people who lived through these important events.

Allan Wolf is passionate about making reading and poetry exciting for young people. He often visits schools to perform, teach workshops, and inspire students to write their own poems. He believes that poetry can help us understand the past, connect with others, and express who we are.

Through his books and performances, Allan Wolf proves that poetry isn't just something you read—it's something you can feel, speak, and live.
