Chapter 1 Psychology: Yesterday and Today

Chapter 1.1 What is Psychology?

Psychology

- The study of mental processes and behaviour.
- Concerned with empirically examining the mind and behaviour and determining how each is influenced by the psychology of the organism as well as the effects of the external environment.
- Mental processes: activities of our brain when engaged in thinking, processing information, and using language.
- Behaviour: observable activities of an organism, often in response to environmental cues.
- When psychologists study mental processes and behaviour, they generally have one of four goals in mind:
 - o Descriptions: psychologists seek to describe very specifically the things that they observe. They have described phenomena such as how we fall in love, how babies learn to talk, how we make decisions, etc.
 - o Explanation: telling what, where, when, and how is sometimes not enough. The key goal of every psychologist is the answer the question "why?". Psychologists have developed hypotheses and theories to explain why people develop addictions and why we get hungry.
 - o Predictions: they seek to predict the circumstances under which a variety of behaviours and mental processes are likely to occur. There has been research to predict the conditions under which we are most likely to offer a stranger in need.
 - o Control: we often encounter situations in which we want to either limit or increase certain behaviours and mental processes - whether our own or others.
- All our thoughts and actions, down to the simplest tasks, involve complex activation and coordination of a number of levels - the levels of the brain, the individual, and the group.
- No psychological process occurs solely at one of these levels.

Brain Level

- Psychologists consider the neuronal (brain cell) activity that occurs during the transmission and storage of information. They also focus on the structure of the brain and the genes that guide its formation.

Individual Level

- Psychologists analyze how the content of mental processes - including emotions, thoughts, and ideas - form and influence behaviour.
- This level includes ideas such as consciousness, intelligence, personality, and motivation.

Cultural Studies in India Rana Nayar, Pushpinder Syal, Akshaya Kumar, 2017-07-05 This volume discusses the development of cultural studies in India. It shows how interdisciplinarity and cultural pluralism form the basis of this emerging field. It deals with contemporary debates and interpretations of postcolonial theory, subaltern studies, Marxism and post-Marxism, nationalism and post-nationalism. Drawing upon literature, linguistics, history, political science, media and theatre studies, and cultural anthropology, it explores themes such as caste, indigenous peoples, vernacular languages and folklore, and their role in the making of historical consciousness. A significant intervention in the area, this book will be useful to scholars and students of cultural studies and theory, literature, history, cultural anthropology, sociology, and media and mass communication, as well as the general reader.

Concepts and Challenges in the Biophysics of Hearing Nigel Paul Cooper, D. T. Kemp, 2009 This book is a compilation of cutting-edge research on the mechanical operation of the peripheral auditory system. Bringing together over 50 theoretical and experimental studies by leading researchers, it covers the molecular, cellular, and systems levels using a powerful combination of biological, mathematical, and engineering techniques. In addition to the scientific papers, the book includes the comments and discussions raised by the individual manuscripts at the time of their presentation and a final chapter with the edited transcripts of a discussion session covering outstanding topics between some of the most prominent researchers in the field. The first-hand information provided by these transcripts will make the book particularly interesting. Renowned contributors to the book include Prof. J.F. Ashmore (FRS, UK), E. de Boer (The Netherlands), W. Brownell (USA), P. Dallos (USA), R. Fettiplace (FRS, USA), A.W. Gummer (Germany), A.J. Hudspeth (USA), D.C. Mountain (USA), A.L.
