Dirty Weekend:

Transgressing Women Jamaluddin Aziz, 2012-01-17 Transgressing Women focuses on the literary and cinematic representation of female characters in contemporary noir thrillers. The book argues that as the genre has grown, expanded, and been subverted since its initial conception, along with the changing definition of gender, the representation of a female character has also inevitably gone through some dramatic changes. So the book asks some important questions: What links the female characters in canonical noir to their contemporary counterparts? Is gender division still relevant in a text that transgresses gender boundaries? What happens when it is the human body itself that betrays the traditional definition or constitution of a human being? While many have written about the male protagonists and the femmes fatales in the noir genre, little attention has been given to the other female characters who inhabit the noir world and are transgressors themselves. The main concern of the book is to trace the transgressive female characters in contemporary noir thrillers, both novels and films, by engaging itself with some of the most topical debates within both post-feminist and postmodernist theories. The book is structured around two key concepts: space and the body. These temporal and spatial indicators are central in contemporary cultural theories such as postmodernism and post-feminism, along with other theorizations of gender and the noir genre. This means that the analysis is drawn from the classical noir examples and will then arrive at the neo-noir sub-genre and then will move on to the most recent phenomenon in the genre: future noir.

Introducing Bakhtin Sue Vice, 1997 The Russian critic and theorist Mikhail Bakhtin is once again in favor; his influence is spreading across many discourses, including literature, film, cultural, and gender studies. This book provides the most comprehensive introduction to Bakhtin's central concepts and terms. Sue Vice illustrates what is meant by such ideas as carnival, the grotesque body, dialogism, and heteroglossia. These concepts are then placed in a contemporary context by drawing out the implications of Bakhtin's writings for current issues such as feminism and sexuality. Vice's examples are always practically based on specific texts such as the film Thelma and Louise, Helen Zahavi's Dirty Weekend, and James Kelman's How Late It Was, How Late.

Urban Culture Chris Jenks, 2004 This set includes key pieces from Peter Ackroyd, Charles Baudelaire, Walter Benjamin, Homi Bhabha, Charles Dickens, Fredrick Engels, Paul Gilroy, Thomas Hobbes, Max Weber, George Simmel, Ian Sinclair, Edward W. Soja, Gayatri Spivak, Nigel Thrift, Virginia Woolf, Sharon Zukin, and many others. The material is arranged thematically, highlighting the variety of interests that coexist and conflict within the city. Issues such as gender, class, race, age, and disability are covered, along with urban experiences such as walking, politics, anthropology, cultural history, cultural geography, art, critical theory, visual culture, literary studies, social policy, and cultural studies.

Places on the Margin Rob Shields, 2013-12-16 The debate on modernity and postmodernity has awakened interest in the importance of the spatial for cultural formations. But what of those spaces that exist as much in the imagination as in physical reality? This book attempts to develop an alternative geography and sociology of space by examining places on the margin.
